WILL ROGERS says:

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10. (To the Editor of The Register.) Notre Dame is here. Notre Dame is here to carry on for Rockne. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we had political leaders who could leave ideals and systems that the young knew were fundamentally right. The difference is the coach has spent a lifetime teaching co-operation. He knows what he wants. While the political candidate only knows that he wants 'em to vote for him. But from then on he is just guessing. Imagine a politician inspiring voters with "give us one more vote, boys, for the memory of dear old Senator Jasbo." "Ah hooley. Who was old Senator Jasbo, and what did he ever do?" But Notre Dame will do it for Rockne as long as a football is blown up.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Americans Over Nation to Come to Aid of Their Less Fortunate Brothers

SNOW IN CALIFORNIA

Alaska Enjoys Comparatively Mild Weather as Northwest is Freezing

CHICAGO, Dec. 10. (UP)—Americans rallied today to the aid of their less fortunate fellow countrymen to provide food and shelter for 12,000,000 jobless who faced severe winter cold.

Reports from all sections to the United Press indicated communities were giving without stint to lessen hardships faced by those without jobs. The plight of the unemployed was made more critical this week by the winter's first severe cold wave which weather forecasters today predicted would be followed by a blizzard.

The cold reigned unbroken from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic and from Canada's border to the Gulf. Today temperatures were ranging slowly from subzero levels but forecasts were that a heavy snow would blanket regions already suffering from cold.

The United Press survey showed well laid plans had enabled local relief corps to protect most of those who face the winter without money, food, jobs and some even without homes. Nearly all communities were prepared for the emergency long before temperatures dropped to subnormal levels.

SNOW, HAIL FALL IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. (UP)—California, a name generally considered synonymous with sunshine—was in the throes of a record breaking cold spell today which brought with it snow, hail and near freezing temperatures.

The chilling blast extended into the Pacific northwest while, paradoxically, Alaska was enjoying comparatively mild weather.

Snow fall in the San Francisco area during the past 24 hours was the heaviest in the history of the weather bureau. In the downtown area it melted as it fell, but in the residential sections and adjoining cities a thin white blanket covered the ground.

ORANGE COUNTY citrus growers were peering anxiously skyward late this afternoon, hoping the blanket of clouds would hover over the county during the night to prevent damage to citrus fruits from heavy frosts which were predicted for Sunday morning by the United States weather bureau.

Mountains in the district were covered with a blanket of snow today and the cold was pronounced even during the morning hours when the thermometer registered 53 degrees.

Clear weather tonight and Sunday morning would bring a cold snap that would necessitate lighting heaters in groves to ward off the frost, according to Ross Shafter of Tustin, who has government temperature instruments. Last night was comparatively warm, 45 degrees being the coldest figure.

Smudge pots are lighted if the temperature drops to 29 degrees. Less than 10 per cent of the citrus acreage in the county, however, is equipped with smudge pots.

Annual Report Of Clerk Not Printed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Economy fever—or something—has hit leaders of the house of representatives to the extent of suppressing the annual report of the clerk of the house from being printed as a public document.

This report has been the source of information concerning employment of relatives and congressional junkets. It was the source of much information concerning the congressional payroll printed in a series of United Press dispatches some months ago.

FRUIT GROWERS IN ATTACK ON STATE OFFICER

Dudley Moulton is Charged With "Unfair and Misleading" Conduct

VENTURA, Calif., Dec. 10. (UP)—Dudley Moulton, head of the state department of agriculture, was the target of an indirect attack from the California Fruit Growers' and Farmers' convention today after he had been directly charged by a federal official with "unfair and misleading" conduct.

The direct attack was delivered by Mills Olsen, chief of the agricultural economics bureau of the department of agriculture at Washington, who in a telegram criticized him for misleading George York, head of the joint federal-state radio market news services.

The fruit growers and farmers group immediately upon receipt of a copy of Olsen's telegram passed a resolution, urging renewed co-operation between state and federal officials in disseminating market news.

Olsen's telegram read: "Your (Moulton's) action arbitrarily assumes full control of joint activities and if carried out makes further co-operation impossible. Because your representations to Governor Rolph and the White House have been so misleading and unfair, I am sending a complete statement of the controversy to agricultural leaders in California."

Moulton was present when the critique was read. He declined to comment after the convention had acted on the resolution.

Governor Rolph, who had attended previous sessions of the convention, was absent. He had gone to Los Angeles after storms had prevented him from returning to Sacramento by plane.

In an address here, Rolph had spoken highly of Moulton's work as head of the department, credit going to him for the work done in restoring harmony among warring milk producers and distributors in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas.

TAXPAYERS COUNCIL SEEKS REDUCTIONS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Organization of the California Counties Taxpayers council for the purpose of securing reduced taxes, especially on real property, was completed at a meeting here last night with representatives of 11 county taxpayers' organizations participating.

Louis M. Foulke, Siakiyou county, president of the County Tax Association, presided as temporary chairman. The object of the new group is to establish "the widest possible local control over all public money locally derived and reduction in governmental expenses," it was announced.

TOP HAT COSTS TAXPAYERS OF NATION $3500

Postmaster Couldn't Ride in Sedan With Topper So Gets New One

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—A congress facing desperate economy problems today was told how Postmaster General Brown obtained a $3500 sedan for official use and then had the government buy him another because the first car's roof was so low he could not wear his top hat in it.

The story was disclosed with publication of testimony before the house appropriations committee.

Brown turned over the smaller sedan to his assistants for errand running after he had traded in all eight of their official cars and $1700 of department funds to purchase it.

"When I looked at the car I found a man of my height could not wear a top hat and sit in this car," he told the committee.

"We were greatly disturbed about that. Furthermore the car was too small in other requirements for formal use. It has been the policy of Congress to give the head of a department a car that is consistent with the importance and dignity of a cabinet position."

"These cars, as you all know, are used by the wives of the heads of the department in making their official calls and performing their official duties, which, while they may not seem important, are very considerable."

The record showed committee members were indignant because the first expensive sedan had been purchased shortly after Congress directed government departments to cut down sharply on their motor car expenses. What they thought about the second car being purchased fit the top hat was not disclosed.

"Personally I think it is an outrage," Representative Arnold, Democrat, Illinois, said when Chief Clerk A. T. Davis refused to discuss why Brown's assistants needed a fine limousine for "utility use."

Chairman Byrns wanted to know if the postoffice department "thinks Congress is going to stand for that, especially when we are trying to economize."

CALIFORNIANS GO BEFORE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Grape growers of California, Ohio and New York today argued before the house ways and means committee for legalization of "naturally fermented" wines. They seek to have such a provision tacked into the Collier-Voelsted amendment measure, now being hastened toward house action.

As the hearing began, Chairman Collier formally announced that Secretary of Treasury Mills' scheduled appearance had been postponed until next Wednesday as the treasury had not concluded its study of the revenue tax possibilities of beer and wine.

The first witness called for the wine producers was Judge Marion Devries, Washington, D. C., representing the Grape Growers' league of California.

FRANCE DECIDES TO PAY DEBT DEC. 15

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The foreign affairs committee of the French chamber of deputies today adopted a sub-committee resolution providing for payment to the United States of France's $20,000,000 debt installment.

The resolution carried a qualifying provision that payment is contingent upon the United States agreeing before hand to participate in a world debts conference.

Post Office Department Is Hard Hit

Treasury Department Budget Estimate is Cut by 25 Millions

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Recommendations that Congress cut the next fiscal year's budget estimates for the treasury and postoffice departments by $32,912,304 were contained in the first appropriation bill reported to the house today by the house appropriations committee.

Although the committee did not take cognizance of President Hoover's request that government salaries be subjected to an additional cut of 11 per cent, it managed to report a treasury-postoffice department bill calling for a total appropriation of $194,831,236 less than appropriations for the current year.

The committee based its proposed appropriations on continuance of last year's economy act with its 8 1-3 salary reduction feature.

To cut so deeply under the accounts which had been recommended in the budget the committee reduced budget-proposed subsidies for air and ocean mail by $1,000,000 and $1,950,000 respectively.

The committee also proposed a reduction of $5,000,000 from the administration recommendations for rail and messenger mail service, and cut $10,000,000 from the $60,000,000 proposed for the treasury department construction program.

The public building construction allocations could be lowered, the committee contended, because "expenditures for public buildings have lagged behind the estimates for appropriations." No reduction curtailing the ultimate post-office building plan was contemplated and it was said this could continue at "full speed."

The total appropriation recommended for the departments was $961,416,537.

The committee allocated $244,383,219 to the treasury, which is $25,817,521 under budget recommendations and $195,243,323 less than appropriations for the current year.

For the postoffice department it set aside $717,933,378, or $7,047,753 less than the budget called for and $88,906,297 less than appropriations for this year.

COMPLAINT IN YACHT MURDER WILL BE FILED

William James Guy Will Be Formally Accused Monday of Slaying

LONG BEACH, Dec. 10.—(UP)—A formal complaint charging William James Guy with the murder of Capt. Walter Wanderwell, soldier of fortune, will be issued Monday, Deputy District Attorney Clarence Hunt announced today.

Decision to bring the murder charge followed what police said was positive identification of Guy as the mysterious "man at the port-hole" who visited the schooner Carmo Monday night, when Wanderwell was shot in the back.

Two members of Wanderwell's crew of thrill and fortune hunters, leggett Wills, engineer, and Martin Smith, 20-year-old Georgia girl, named Guy as the visitor.

They previously had identified him only tentatively, but after renewed questioning last night, both told officers they were positive.

Miss Smith gazed through a peephole as a parade of men, in an impromptu police lineup, passed before her.

All wore overcoats. Their collars were turned up. They walked with their hands in their pockets. In that swarming manner ascribed to "the man at the port-hole."

Police, newspaper reporters and others she had never seen passed before the witness. Then Guy came in sight.

"I'm positive—he's the man," the girl cried.

She was shaking and near collapse.

Guy was located and arrested Wednesday night after incidents of his career and that of Wanderwell furnished police with a possible motive.

Through two tense days the young, handsome Welsh adventurer remained confident and smiling, certain of his alibi of having spent Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward De Larn.

Police declared, however, that the stories of Mr. and Mrs. De Larn were contradictory.

SENATE AND HOUSE HEADS CAN'T AGREE

Method of Procedure Finds Democrats and Republicans at Loggerheads

BEER VOTE IS CLOSE

Indications Point to Repeal Vote Being Postponed to Next Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Repeal of the 18th amendment appeared today to be jeopardized at this short session of congress by disagreement between Democratic house and senate leaders.

Inquiry indicates the senate is overwhelmingly in favor of submitting repeal in some form. The unqualified repeal resolution sponsored in the house by Speaker Garner failed of two-thirds majority by the narrowest margin.

But there is disagreement over method. And unless the dispute is compromised, the repeal issue will be blocked in this session. The house meantime is progressing toward an early vote on modification. Its ways and means committee today was to hear California, New York and Ohio vineyardists who want "naturally fermented" wines legalized along with beer.

In the face of Garner's unqualified repeal proposal, senate Democrats and Republicans are at loggerheads.

first glimpse of snowflakes eagerly snatched up snowballs. The temperature was expected to drop to 25 degrees at the weather bureau station here this morning for the first time since 1922.

Apartment house dwellers were confronted with a heating problem. Accustomed to a mild climate, most apartments are equipped with only one small radiator to provide warmth for two or three rooms.

High in the nearby Sierra mountains, roads were blocked by snow and near zero temperatures were reported. Workers in Yosemite National park were given a holiday to don skis and snowshoes to celebrate the arrival of the winter sports season.

An unidentified man who had attempted to commit suicide was found dead from exposure in San Francisco's Golden Gate park. At Tacoma, Wash., H. Sossom, 54, froze to death in his motorboat when the mercury fell to 16 degrees.

Youngsters at Portland, Ore., confidently watched thickening ice on ponds and lakes as the temperature fell to 15 degrees. Madras, Ore., far inland, reported 24 degrees below zero.

Thermometers at Sacramento, Calif., registered 22 degrees yesterday, breaking a December record that had stood since 1880. Freezing temperatures in California were reported as far south as Fresno. Snow and a chilling wind sent the mercury down to 20 degrees at San Jose.

Los Angeles and San Diego, in the southern part of the state, escaped the freakish weather, although the temperature was about 20 degrees lower than normal in that region.

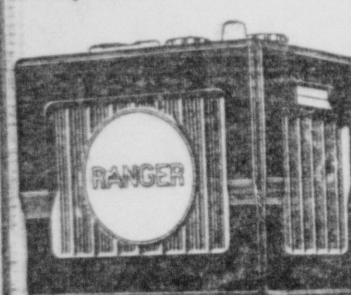

The weather bureau held no hope for relief from the low temperatures in Northern California. Oregon and Washington before the first of next week.

COURT GRANTS DIVORCES TO THREE WIVES

Three matrimonial ships were officially declared wrecked yesterday when Superior Judge James L. Allen handed down three interlocutory decrees of divorce.

Mrs. Myrl Undine Schwager of Anaheim was granted a decree of divorce, custody of her two children and $30 monthly for their support when she told the court that her husband, Lewis Emil Schwager, had failed to provide for her family, making it necessary for her to work to support the children. The Schwagers were married April 8, 1918 at Salt Lake City and separated March 11, 1927.

Mrs. Emma Lymburner of Newport Beach secured a divorce from Robert Lymburner, Newport Beach fisherman, on her charge that his habitual intemperance made it impossible for him to work for days at a time and that he had struck her and on many occasions called her vile and indecent names and accused her of intimacies with other men. The Lymburners were married at San Diego, December 11, 1925, and separated November 18, 1928.

Mrs. Ruth Nicholson, Santa Ana, was given a divorce from Darrell Nicholson on her charge of failure to provide. The Nicholsons were married in Bakersfield May 29, 1921 and separated September 15, 1932.

BANDIT GETS 10 CENTS IN HOLDUP

A bandit, who police believe was just an itinerant hobo, held up Roscoe Alder, employee of the Bob Murphy garage at 422 West Fifth street at 11:30 o'clock last night and for his trouble got 10 pennies, all the cash register in the garage contained.

Alder reported that the man came up to him and asked for enough money to get something to eat. Alder told him he did not have any and the man pulled a pistol and ordered the employee to hold up his hands.

After backing away and the bandit rifled the cash register. After the holdup, he disappeared in the darkness outside.

VOICE TEACHER IS MUSIC CLUB GUEST

Musical Arts club members yesterday had the pleasure of entertaining as special guests at the weekly club luncheon in Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe, Frank Carroll Giffen, well known voice teacher of Los Angeles, and Miss Himmelstein, one of his pupils.

In the course of a talk given by the distinguished teacher, he answered many questions proposed by the members, and gave details of his own teaching methods. Giffen was founder of the San Francisco Opera association, and for several years has served the California Music Teachers' association as president.

Miss Himmelstein sang three numbers in a very delightful manner, well exemplifying his teaching methods.

On Friday evening, December 16, the club will celebrate with a Christmas program and party, dining at 6:30 o'clock in the Doris-Kathryn, then adjourning to the home of the president, Gill Main street, for a social evening. This will be the final meeting until after the holidays.

DENY NEW TRIAL ON ARSON CHARGE

Haim Perez, former proprietor of a Newport Beach bath house, was denied a new trial on a charge of arson, yesterday through decision of Superior Judge James L. Allen who heard arguments on the petition. Hearing on Perez's application for probation, filed after his conviction, was set for next Friday morning.

C. B. Diehl of the Costa Mesa law firm of Diehl and Anderson, Perez's attorney, in his motion for a new trial charged that the evidence was insufficient to warrant conviction of Perez and also accused misconduct on the part of the jury during the trial.

His arrest followed an automobile accident in front of 804 South Main street when a car, said to have been driven by Floyd crashed into a parked car registered to J. M. Manson, of Huntington Beach, Route No. 1. Mrs. Manson was sitting in the car at the time but was not injured. Both cars were damaged.

Smith replaced Stevens at right tackle for Santa Barbara. A whole new Santa Ana team is warming up on the sidelines as Rafferty, Barbara, Raffetto and Graham prepared to kick off for Santa Ana.

Bolton stepped out of bounds on Santa Ana's 37 yard line after a 2 yard return. Bob Mitchell lost one yard when he fell going around right end. The ball was taken back and Santa Barbara penalized 5 yards for off side. The ball is on Santa Ana's 42 yard line. Kidder made 2 yards over left guard as the first quarter ended with the score, Santa Ana 13; Santa Barbara 0.

Hamilton hit a stonewall at right tackle. He was stopped by Tsoutsouvas. On a wide end run around right end Hamilton failed to gain. He was stopped by Tsoutsouvas. Fourth down. Stranske punted to Nunez who was dropped in his tracks by Newton on Santa Barbara's 16 yard line. Graham circled right end for 12 yards and a first down on Santa Barbara's 28 yard line. Nunez carried one ball out of bounds, gaining one yard. The ball was taken back and Santa Ana penalized 5 yards for being off side. Graham was thrown for a 2 yard loss by Stranske and Hales. It was a wide end run.

COMPLAINT IN YACHT MURDER WILL BE FILED

Larm and another alibi witness, Ralph Dunlap, aviation mechanic, differed.

A new mystery was injected into the case today.

It was the sound of a shot and a bullet which assuredly crashed through a wall of the De Larm house Tuesday morning, killing the pet cat of A. P. Hart, a neighbor.

Immediately after Hart told his story to police, officers prepared to disinter the body of the cat, which Hart said he had buried, to search for the bullet.

They wished, they said, to compare it with the .38 caliber slug which passed through Wanderwell's heart.

Police said Hart told them he heard no sounds of a quarrel or disturbance at the time of the shot. It was fired about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, the hour at which Guy supposedly left the De Larm home for his "hideaway" in a house on the outskirts of Los Angeles.

A coroner's jury found that Wanderwell came to his death "from a bullet wound in the heart, inflicted by a person or persons unknown."

Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, pretty blonde widow of the adventurer, testified briefly of her marriage with Wanderwell, their travels together, Willis, Zonanski and the two girls repeated their stories. Police made no effort to present incriminating evidence at the inquest. Neither Guy nor his attorney was present.

The widow announced that Wanderwell would be buried at sea, if possible from the deck of the Carme, which he had planned to sail to the South seas with his company of amateur adventurers.

TWO YOUTHS DIE IN SING SING CHAIR

OSSENING, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(UP)—Two youths who received a respite from death for 24 hours to die of a heart attack while Sing Sing went on with its musical revue were electrocuted early today for the murder of a New York policeman.

The young slayers, Charles Markowitz, 21, and Joseph Brown, 20, were calm as they went to the electric chair. Both had reconciled themselves to their fate long before they entered the death chamber.

"If we've got to go, we've got to go and that's that," was Brown's remark. Markowitz was equally philosophical about it, but did protest to a guard, "I don't rate a rap like this."

They were calm as they went to the electric chair. Both had reconciled themselves to their fate long before they entered the death chamber.

Child Hurt When Struck By Auto

Louie Estrada, 5 years old, of 602 Delsy street, Santa Ana, was knocked down and injured by an automobile on Pacific street, near Fifth street, late yesterday afternoon, according to a report filed at the city police station.

The boy was taken to his home. Police reported the driver of the car was J. A. Mauerhan, 36, of Los Angeles.

SHERIFF WILL INVESTIGATE MURDER ANGLE

Charged with robbery on two counts, the holdup of the Orange service station early yesterday morning and the service station of Ed Coffman, at the Eddie Martin airport last Wednesday night, Jack O'Brien, 19, and Dean Stanley, 28, were yesterday morning after their preliminary examination in Judge A. W. Swayze's Orange justice court today.

They were held to answer to the superior court in bonds of $5000 each on each count, or a total of $10,000 each.

The men are asserted to have confessed to both holdups. They were arrested by Orange police, who attended the Prather Orange Service station, and had taken him to a point in Santa Ana canyon where they beat him into insensibility. The men then returned to the service station to loot it and were captured.

Find Loot
Deputy Sheriff L. H. Nicholson returned here today from Banning, the home of Stanley, where last night, he with several Riverside county deputy sheriffs searched the home of Stanley's mother, Mrs. Mary Stanton at 743 West Ramsey street. There they found, they reported, loot from several other hold-ups committed in Riverside county.

Following their trials here on the local charges, they will be turned over to Riverside county authorities for prosecution, it was said.

Stanley has lived in Banning for approximately two years but O'Brien is a newcomer to California, having been there only a few days. How the two men happened to be friends is not known, although police are sifting a story to the effect that Stanley saw O'Brien hop off a freight train several days ago and picked him up to give him a ride towards Long Beach.

Mayor Koeseel Angle?
Sheriff Logan Jackson said today that the two men would be questioned thoroughly today concerning their whereabouts on the night that Mayor Fred Koeseel of Anaheim was shot and fatally wounded. He said there was a possibility that these were the same two who held up Mayor Koeseel.

The theory that Stanley and O'Brien were the same bandits which committed the murder is based by sheriff's officers on the fact that in their two holdups here they have shown unusual brutality, beating both Coffman and young Morgan unmercifully, one of them after the robbery was committed and when there was no apparent motive for doing so.

From the action the two men took in the Orange justice court today, it is apparent that they plan to plead guilty in the superior court to the charges and take their sentences as soon as possible, sible.

Judge Mitchell Leaves On Trip To Former Home
City Recorder J. G. Mitchell left Santa Ana at noon today for a visit to his former home at Fairmont, Minn.

The trip is a business trip, Judge Mitchell said this morning else he would select another time of the year, he said, following advice he has received that it is below zero in Fairmont and a foot of snow covers the ground. The judge expects to be gone until after January 1, he said.

During his absence here Justice John Landell, "age" of San Juan Capistrano, will be on the local bench. Judge Landell, well known here, will handle the local cases as well as his office at San Juan Capistrano. He will commute, he said.

Think Missing S.A. Woman May Be On Way To Islands
Deputy sheriffs investigating the strange disappearance here of December 5 of Mrs. Olive Hooe, 33, of 1023 West Third street, reported no progress today.

The woman left her home to return books to the city library. After returning the books she disappeared and has not been seen since that time.

Officers were today checking a theory that she had left for the Philippine Islands, after learning that she had a passport could not be found among her belongings at her home.

CROWDS FILL FAMOUS STORE FOR OPENING

In spite of the inclement weather today, huge crowds jammed the Famous Department store at Fourth and Bush streets this morning when the doors of Santa Ana's new store swung open for the first time.

When the doors were opened at 9 o'clock this morning, a large crowd was waiting at both entrances of the store to inspect the interior of the store and to shop.

A. J. Spilker, general manager of Famous stores, which organization now operates four large department stores, today expressed the thanks of the organization to the general public for the interest taken in the new store.

He especially thanked the many friends and well-wishers for the large and gorgeous floral displays which are arranged in various places in the commodious interior of the store for the hundreds of telegrams which came in.

Spilker said he regretted the fact that in some instances it was not possible for employees of the store to give the type of service which will characterize the store in the future because of the fact that they were busy beyond any expectation.

Since the first announcement, two auto parks have been added to the service of the store for patrons. Shoppers who make a purchase in Famous store can park their cars in the Platt station at Third and Bush or the Central park at Second and Bush free of charge.

H. E. Willard, president, and James N. Harding, vice president of the Merchants association, attended the opening at the invitation of Famous store officials.

MERCHANT FINED ON FALSE AD CHARGE
S. Block, Los Angeles dealer in luxury goods, convicted here by a jury of false advertising, was fined $300 in the city police court yesterday.

The case had been continued since Wednesday at which time Block appeared and the case was asked that the judgment be set aside and that a new trial be granted. Judge J. G. Mitchell pondered this move until today when he refused to grant a new trial and sentenced Block to pay $300.

Apparently for the purpose of appealing the case to the superior court, and at the request of the defendant, the carrying out of the judgment was put off until December 15.

CARL TRUMPY OF NEWPORT CALLED
Carl Trumpy, 39, Southern California Edison company agent in the Newport Beach district for the past 14 years, died in his sleep last night. The body was removed to the Chezum Funeral home at Costa Mesa. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mr. Trumpy is survived by his widow, Nellie; one daughter, Frances Marie; his father, S. Trumpy, Garden Grove, and two sisters, Mrs. John Gupto, Garden Grove, and Mrs. R. DuBois, Orange.

Mr. Trumpy was active in various city affairs in the harbor district. He was a paid call member of the Newport fire department.

FORMER SANTA ANAN, HEAD OF WORLD AFFAIRS INSTITUTE, TO SPEAK HERE MONDAY NIGHT

Monday night Dr. Charles E. Martin, dean of men and professor of political science at the University of Washington, and former Santa Anan will return to his home city as the speaker of the evening at a meeting to be sponsored by the Santa Ana Council of International Relations. The meeting will be held at the First Methodist church and Dr. Martin will talk on "The World Court and the Question of American Adherence."

Dr. Martin is director of the Institute of International Relations which meets next week, December 11 to 16 at the Mission Inn in Riverside and will deliver the opening address there on "The Moral Foundations of an Ordered World."

Dr. Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Martin, 1178 Chestnut street, and graduated from the Santa Ana Polytechnic High school. Following his graduation from high school here in 1910, Dr. Martin went to University of Southern California for two years then for two years to the University of California, where he graduated in 1914.

In the two years following his graduation he took his master's and doctor's degrees and acted as a teaching fellow in political science. In 1918 he obtained another doctor's degree in the field of international law.

During the World war he was connected with the war trade board, but resigned to become an enforcement officer in the food administration division under Herbert Hoover. Later he transferred to the coast artillery.

After the armistice he became a Carnegie fellow in international law at Washington, D. C., and later accepted the post of lecturer in international science at the University of California. He later organized the department of political science at U. C. L. A. and remained there as head of the department for five years before accepting the post with the University of Washington.

Delegates to the convention, through a resolution, urged the state board of agriculture investigate recent serious charges against the administration of the state department of agriculture and report its findings to Governor James Rolph and the agricultural industry, along with such recommendations as may seem desirable for the welfare of the department and the industry.

RISE OF SILAS LAPHAM GIVEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—Presented by students of the Orange Union High school fourth period drama class, "The Rise of Silas Lapham," a four-act play, was given last night before an enthusiastic audience in the school auditorium.

F. L. Carrier directed. The role of Silas Lapham, the hard-working man who made a fortune only to lose it almost immediately, was played admirably by Harold Fred Hauptman. With equal poise and conviction, Frances Wilbur played the part of his wife, Persis Lapham, adapting herself to the difficult role of a middle aged woman.

Lois Reeves as Penelope Lapham and Elinor Adams as Irene Lapham, young daughters of Silas and Persis, added safety and charm to the depth of much of the stage conversation. Clifford Butler proved himself a capable actor in portraying the part of a conscientious young man who fell in love with Penelope.

Adding to the complications of the plot was Ervin Paulus as Milton Rogers, a man of questionable business tactics. Two members of the large cast, Calvin Crawford and Frank Kroener, showed their versatility by taking more than one part each. Crawford acted as Bartley Hubbard, a young reporter; as Robert Chase and as Walker, an office assistant. Kroener took the part of the Rev. Sewell and of Mr. Dunham, an Englishman.

Suzanne Clark and Jorris Shephard were convincing in their roles as Anna Corey and Bramfield Corey, a middle aged couple. Ruth Spencer and Evelyn Brandon were their daughters in the play.

Others in the cast were Marie Dieker, Bob Lovell, Richard Dorf, Julia Grace Mahoney and Art Lemke. The junior class play will be presented March 3, 1933.

Music was provided by the school orchestra, under the direction of Percy Green.

MERCURY AND TURBID RACE CARRIER RACE

With but four days left in the Register Carrier Popularity contest, thousands of votes are being piled into the circulation department by contestants who have held coupons and letters of recommendation in their possession for the purpose of making a surprise count toward the end of the race.

An announcement made last Wednesday doubling credit on new subscriptions has added many thousands of votes to subscription hustlers. The vote coupon, good for 10 votes, which has been appearing daily in the Register was discontinued Thursday in order that carriers would have ample time to pick up all their votes and get them into the office before the end of the contest, December 15. Vote coupons, letters of recommendation, lack of complaints in service, new subscriptions and increase in number of subscribers are all vote earners for contestants.

At this point in the race, Blas Mercurio has taken the lead in second group with George Young in second place. Charles Reither and William White have jumped ahead of Oresto Noche for third and fourth, putting Noche in fifth place.

In the suburban district, William Turpin of Westminster is ahead of Glen Killingsbeck of Garden Grove, having gained places with each other during the last three days. Robert Baker of Newport is in third place and Fred Brinkman of Costa Mesa is fourth.

Below is the standing to date of all contestants:

PRaise FOR CLARA IN NEW PICTURE

BY DAN THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—Clara Bow again has ascended the throne as queen of Hollywood's red heads.

After seeing her new film, "Call Her Savage," I am convinced she is back on the screen for quite a long sojourn.

There was a time when Clara sat on the throne of pinheads of film. For two years she led all others at the box office. Whether she again will reach that spot is a matter of speculation. But it is a safe bet that she will go far.

Taking the picture as a whole, there isn't a great deal that can be said for "Call Her Savage." Personally I think it was the wrong vehicle with which to start her out. In the early reels particularly, there was too much of a tendency to capitalize on her sex appeal. But with all that, she does a better job of acting than I've ever seen her do. And she looks grand. A year's rest has done her no end of good. Although grown up in mannerisms, she is younger than before in appearance.

Since her husband died ten years ago, Kate Sayers made $60,000 by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous American car. Europe. It was the first time she saw her father, whom she knew only as a gigolo and racing car driver. A gang of jewel thieves, Mrs. Sayers' daughter Alacia had recently fallen in love at first sight with him. She, Prince d'Orsant, who was learning the business as a Piron's Jewellery, Armand decided to employ at Piron's, substituted imitations for Mrs. Sayers' fabulous rubies in the garage where he had handled the rubies but was released on bail. Alacia suspected Santini. Armand was a duplicate of Santini's racer in the Grand Prix, and they started in pursuit in the Grand Prix. Armand was mistaken for Santini by a distrustful confederate who was not to remove the rubies from the upholstery of his car seat, and to return to the garage where he had Santini's car in the race. Shortly before the start Alacia surprised Santini in the garage where he had secreted his Europa. He had killed his mechanic just before her arrest. When he saw her, he rushed at her. As they struggled he slipped in a pool of grease and they did not move. "I've killed him," Alacia said.

Slowly Alacia backed off, groping for her door, found it, and opened it, dreading to see what the light would reveal. Santini lay on his back, close to the car. Evidently in falling he had struck his head on the hub of the front wheel, and Alacia in terror, forced herself to touch him. As she moved his shoulders Santini groaned slightly, and her pulses bounded with relief. At least he was alive! What should she do? Surely by now there must be some soul in the neighborhood who would hear and be alarmed. Yet suppose no help came? And then there was the car. She must get that away and into the hands of the police before anything else could happen. Suddenly she remembered what Armand had told her about Santini being watched day and night by his own confederates. What if they were watching even now, waiting for him to come out? Panic left her, and she began to think more clearly. If she left the car there, it might easily be gone when she returned with help. Then, too, she must leave and inconspicuous fashion could that building in the most natural way. Then all at once she saw, clearly, how it could be done. In another moment, she was kneeling by Santini's unconscious figure, stripping off his overalls. When they lay in a lit-

The program was in charge of Mrs. Linnell. She read Bible verses appropriate to the topic, "Promises," and told of work being done by missionaries in Belgium Congo and in Italian districts in Brooklyn, N. Y., etc.

The next meeting of the society is to be held the second Friday in January.

Burglars Enter, School Library

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—Two burglars were reported to the Orange police department yesterday. One was at the Orange Intermediate school which was entered by a window in the cooking room. Fingerprints and footprints were left by the intruders, who appropriated 36 cents, the only loot they obtained after the building had been ransacked.

The public library was the other building entered and a window in the basement also was shattered to gain an entrance. The burglars are thought to have been the same in both cases. At the library a second window in a door leading from downstairs rooms to the upstairs was broken. Nothing of value was taken, but the entrants had a cluster of persimmons which had been brought to the library by a patron.

INFORMATIONS FILED AGAINST 6 DEFENDANTS

With six men appearing before Superior Judge James L. Allen to enter pleas to informations filed against them by the district attorney's office one plea was received and date for trial set. The other cases were continued. Joe Garcia, pleaded not guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors and waived a jury trial. His hearing was set for December 20, at 10 o'clock.

Hung Jung Hung, accused of a misdemeanor, violation of the Produce Dealers act, asked for continuance of his arraignment for 30 days to enable him to employ an attorney. He was granted a continuance of one week and ordered remanded to the custody of the sheriff when Judge Allen declared the $1000 bond posted in justice court at Anaheim, at the time of his preliminary hearing, was not acceptable to the court.

The bonding company, Judge Allen said is in ill repute with Los Angeles, Orange county and other superior court.

Howard Pender asked delay in his arraignment on a charge of burglary, to give him opportunity to secure an attorney. Next Friday was set as time for this pleading.

Pete Orsco, accused of being an alien and having firearms in his possession, asked for a delay as his brother had promised to be in court with an attorney and had not appeared. His arraignment was set for next Friday at 10 a.m.

Arthur D. Maas, accused of obstructing officers in the discharge of their duty was given a week's delay in pleading due to the absence from court of his attorney. Maas is at liberty under $2000 bond and is accused of having aided Rolf Von Eckersberg to escape after an automobile collision in which three Orange high school students were killed.

Steve Poras, arraigned on a charge of failure to stop and render aid after an automobile accident was given a delay of one week in entering a plea. The delay was granted to enable Poras to secure an attorney.

CHESS EXPERTS ENJOY TOURNAY

Chess was the center of attraction at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday night, when enthusiasts gathered to try their skill against each other and against the Orange county chess champion, E. P. Elliott. The interest was sufficient to warrant the announcement that another assembly will be held at the Y next Thursday night for further play and practice, with the possibility of forming some informal organization to continue the meetings.

The simultaneous play by Champion Elliott attracted most attention, both from the players and the spectators. Twenty players opposed Elliott in simultaneous play, and but one of them, W. P. Caverly, succeeded in breaking down the vigorous attack of the expert. Caverly won from Elliott, while Elliott won from the other 19 opponents whom he played at one time. Interest was added by the fact that two of the most enthusiastic players were ladies, Mrs. Harold W. Richardson and Miss Nancy Shonson took part in the play and gave good account of their skill.

All men and women interested in chess will be welcome at the Y next Thursday evening for play and practice.

Tossed Boxes At Sheriff Jackson, Hobo Is Jailed

When Hugo Shultz, San Francisco hobo was hauled before Judge J. G. Mitchell Thursday on a drunk charge he said he would do anything the judge wouldn't send him to jail.

The judge didn't. He gave Shultz a suspended sentence. Shultz was told to get out of Santa Ana and stay out. He agreed.

But, apparently Shultz changed his mind. Last night he started heaving pastboard cartons at Sheriff Logan Jackson, so he's back in the county jail today.

Jackson and Mrs. Jackson were entering Santa Ana boulevard in their car from Flower street early last night. A man was standing in the road. The sheriff slowed down to avoid striking him and the man started throwing boxes at the car.

The sheriff stopped. It was Shultz. Shultz was booked at the jail for being drunk again.

FRUIT PATROL WINS PRAISE FOR ITS WORK

Orange county's fruit patrol, working out of the district attorney's office, was highly praised Thursday at a meeting of Southern California avocado growers, poultry raisers and law enforcement officers held in Los Angeles.

Supervisors of Los Angeles county will be asked to authorize organization of a similar unit for service there in protecting the rural districts from fruit and poultry thieves.

Captain Brooks of the farm department of the Los Angeles county sheriff's office, in a talk delivered at the meeting held in the office of the Los Angeles county farm advisor, praised the Orange county fruit patrol and its work in curbing fruit and poultry thefts.

The meeting held yesterday morning in Los Angeles was called for the purpose of planning a campaign against fruit and poultry thieves who prey on the rural sections. Avocado and poultry producers were particularly invited to attend this conference with law enforcement officers as threats of avocados and poultry form the major complaints from the farm areas.

The conference was sponsored by the Inter-County Farm Bureau avocado department and was attended by district attorneys of the southern counties, law enforcement officers and representatives of the grower organizations. Orange county was represented at the conference by District Attorney Sam Collins; Assistant District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, recently appointed to succeed Collins as district attorney on December 15; Robert Sandon, chief investigator for the district attorney's office; members of the Orange county fruit patrol, and Sheriff Logan Jackson.

Los Angeles county has at times had a fruit patrol in the farming area. This organization functioned only at intervals and the conference yesterday resulted in a resolution to be presented to the Los Angeles county supervisors urging that a permanent patrol be established.

Cooperation of all law enforcement agencies of Southern California will also be sought in an effort to effect the arrest of fruit, produce and poultry dealers in the metropolitan areas who purchase stolen farm products. It was pointed out that in the majority of cases arrangements to sell the stolen fruit or poultry had been made before the theft.

$2500 LOSS IN GROCERY FIRE AT HARDING

Fire completely destroyed a grocery at Harding Station, at the intersection of Lincoln boulevard and Stanton road Thursday night at about 11 o'clock. The building was owned by George Watts of Anaheim and the store was operated by A. N. Bahannan who lived with his family in rooms at the rear of the store.

The fire, which started under the roof at the front of the building was discovered by an operator at a service station nearby. The man forced in the front door of the grocery and woke the occupants of the building. The building was valued at about $1500 and the stock at about $1000. The Bahannan family were able to save a part of their clothing and furniture before the structure collapsed.

The state fire truck from Orange with Joe Scherman in charge and several Orange firemen arrived at the scene in time to save a garage at the rear of the store and to extinguish flames which were burning a telephone pole on one of the main lines of the district.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

REPEAL
That house prohibition vote left plenty of bad feeling under the surface. No room in Washington is quite large enough now to hold Democratic Speaker Garner and Arkansas Senator Robinson, Democratic leader in the senate.

Garner's associates confidentially believe Robinson is the main reason why the resolution failed. The Arkansasan boldly said before the vote that such a resolution would not get through the senate without modification.

Then in the roll call the Arkansasan delegation in the house unanimously opposed the Garner resolution. It was the only delegation in the house that was unanimous on the question.

You will never be able to convince Garner that Robinson did not have something to do with that.

The real reason the resolution failed was that 44 Democrats refused to follow the party platform. Thirty-two came from below the Mason-Dixon line. Practically all hail from rural sections.

There was no organized effort to line up this group. They came together spontaneously. Most of them actually hated to vote as they did. The line of party regularity is easily crossed.

As it is their names will be on the blacklist of the leaders for some time to come. Their bills will have a rough time being mapped out for them this session.

That is the way things are done in Washington.

DRYS
The under cover dry fight is not an especially formidable thing. Outside of the Rev. E. C. Dindwiddle none of the dry leaders are getting very far in their lobbying activities. The power of the Allied Forces is weak in the knees since the election. They supported Mr. Hoover. Congressmen generally have an idea that anyone who supported Mr. Hoover is not a good man to follow just now.

The dry last ditchers have deep motives for their stand. Lane Ducks are playing a long time game. They are out for the next two years and they are counting on a reaction from repeal to put them in popular favor again.

They have nothing to lose by voting dry.

The Democratic leaders are trying to forget what their own dry brethren told to them. They are concentrating their curses on the Republicans. It always sounds better in public.

The inside fact is that Republican Leader Snell promised to deliver 125 votes for the Garner resolution. He shortchanged Garner by 25 votes.

The failure of 44 dry Democrats was rather expected. Garner's private poll before the vote showed a maximum of 162 Democrats for the resolution. He got six more than he expected.

His friends did think that the others would have the politeness to absent themselves from the chamber.

Personal recriminations are, however, being largely suppressed. That is because everyone knows something like the Garner resolution will certainly pass within the next few months.

There are many southern Democratic Congressmen who went down the line valiantly for the party platform against their own judgment.

One is a name Duck leader. His hands were trembling when he talked later with friends. He told them: "That is the first wet vote I ever cast in my life and I have been in politics for forty years. I am waiting until the letters roll in from my district."

CHURCH
Bishop Cannon is around trying to stir up the religious issue on prohibition. He figures the Democratic victory in November was the doing of the Pope. If he could get the fight down to his level the dries would have a better chance of winning. The trouble is no one here will believe him.

His mimeograph machine is the only weapon he has. He cannot count a single congressman. His home state delegation, Virginia, voted unanimously for the Garner repealer.

Once you lose your prestige in Washington you never come back.

SOVIETS
Even the hottest Reds confidentially turned against the Hunger Marchers.

A certain Soviet agent in Washington is known to have received directions from Moscow to avoid that gang. He was furthermore urged to do all in his power to prevent the American public from getting the idea that the Soviets were behind the move.

The inside on that situation appears to be that Moscow has high hopes of early recognition by the United States, or at least promotion of trade relations. They do not want to do anything that would interfere with the main object.

To show you how high Russian hopes are getting, the Moscow newspaper Izvestia has for the first time sent a correspondent here to cover Washington in detail for Soviet readers. Previously Russia received all her Washington news through the Tass agency.

Certain leading Democratic statesmen are supposed to have promised privately to consider recognition soon after inauguration. That does not include President-elect Roosevelt. He has not yet committed himself either publicly or privately.

NOTES
Stories about Republican Leader Snell jockeying Garner into the vote on repeal are pure Republican propaganda. GARNER chose his own medicine for a good reason. . . . He knew beer could not get anywhere if first up because Mr. Hoover was going to veto it. . . . The police wanted to use their clubs on the Hunger Marchers. . . .

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

MESSAGE
New York snapped to attention at three points in President Hoover's message to Congress. The stress he laid on immediate banking legislation was something of a shock. The banks had hoped they had headed it off. But under cover friction between the Administration and several important banks has hotted up in the last few months. Failure of commercial credit to expand in spite of Federal Reserve efforts to give it a boost is a very sore point.

EXCHANGE AND FRUIT FIRM IN SELLING DEAL

Announcement that the California Fruit exchange and the Earl Fruit company had entered into a 10-year contract for the purpose of marketing jointly the deciduous fruits and grapes controlled by the two organizations was made Thursday by A. J. McFadden, of Santa Ana, a director of the exchange.

McFadden attended a directors meeting in Sacramento yesterday. The contract is of interest to Orange county because of the fact that the Southern California Permanence association, which sells the $75,000 crop of Orange county persimmons, is associated with the exchange, McFadden said.

The exchange, a growers' cooperative marketing organization controls a total annual carload movement of approximately 15,000 cars. The Earl Fruit company, in addition to its own tremendous holdings, which make it the largest individual producer of deciduous fruits in the United States, together with other tonnage which it directly controls, handles approximately 10,000 carloads annually.

The managements of both concerns have brought about this marketing unity because of the present chaotic conditions in all of its phases of the California fresh deciduous fruit industry, and for the purpose of seeking to effect improvement in marketing conditions which will better the position of the growers by reason of a more systematic and orderly distribution into the consuming markets of the world. It is said.

Local bankers are worried about possible reprisals although they claim the scuttling of the Federal Reserve theory is no fault of theirs. The big question now is "What does he mean—banking legislation?" If it is a matter of forcing all banks into the Federal Reserve System and permitting the extension of branch banking he won't hear many complaints from here. But revival of the main features of the Glass Bill would be a fish with different fins.

The President's plan to extend the five day week among government employees was generally applauded. If he can make it stick it ought to hasten general adoption of the plan by industry. Also its inclusion in the budget is a move in the direction of a more systematic and orderly distribution into the consuming markets of the world. It is said.

Laurence V. Moores, 34, fisherman at Balboa, was lodged in the county jail Thursday night by game wardens, booked on a charge of violation of the California Fish and Game laws.

He is asserted to have had a number of baby lobsters in his boat when he docked at the beach city late yesterday with a load of fish.

Moores was in jail only a short time when he was released on his own recognizance by Donald Dodge, Costa Mesa justice of the peace.

MAKE SAVING IN FEES FOR JURY AUDITOR

At a saving of approximately 25 per cent over the amount paid for the same service last year, the 1932-33 Orange county grand jury has employed the firm of H. Granshaw and company, certified public accountants, as grand jury auditors for this year.

Selection of the auditor for this year was made by the committee on cost of county operation and management expense, headed by J. P. Transue. Exact amount to be paid for the audit of books of county and city officials was not released by the committee but according to one member of the group it was said that the amount to be paid for the service this year is at least 2 per cent under the amount expended last year for a similar service.

The saving in auditor's hire by the grand jury this year is in line with the expected economy recommendations that are expected to be included in the annual report of the inquisitorial body. It is expected that the grand jury this year will recommend a reduction of expenditures in every department of county government.

The managements of both concerns have brought about this marketing unity because of the present chaotic conditions in all of its phases of the California fresh deciduous fruit industry, and for the purpose of seeking to effect improvement in marketing conditions which will better the position of the growers by reason of a more systematic and orderly distribution into the consuming markets of the world. It is said.

Local bankers are worried about possible reprisals although they claim the scuttling of the Federal Reserve theory is no fault of theirs. The big question now is "What does he mean—banking legislation?" If it is a matter of forcing all banks into the Federal Reserve System and permitting the extension of branch banking he won't hear many complaints from here. But revival of the main features of the Glass Bill would be a fish with different fins.

SLES Sporting Feature Puts Mohler In Big Game

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

When Wallace Wade left Alabama two years ago, it appeared that the Crimson Tide was due for a few years of pale pink performance. Wade left the school at the height of its football power. A reaction seemed to be the thing to expect.

Well, it hasn't happened. And one of the main reasons why it hasn't (with apologies to Johnny Rains), has been the coaching by "Shrewd Tommy" Thomas, one of the old guard.

LOOKS DECEIVE

"Shrewd Tommy" might never be suspected of being a quarterback if you judge by looks. During his three years of running the team, 1920-1922, he was a round, chunky chap, resembling more a butcher boy than a quarterback. The "Shrewd Tommy" Thomas, one of the old guard.

This cherub with the nice, round face on the campus could be an awfully tough taskmaster on the gridiron. As quarterback he bossed such men as Harry Mehre, now coaching at Georgia; Chet Wayne and Roger Riley, the mentors who led Auburn through an undefeated season this year; and Hank Anderson, now the Irish teacher. He called signals for Mohrhardt, Desch, Darryl, Caster and other storied Notre Dame halfbacks.

BREAKS IN HORSEMAN

"Shrewd Tommy" has given credit by many for developing the possibilities in Sleepy Jim Crowley. Thomas was a senior and had been regular quarterback three years when Soph Crowley came along. The raw young men who were to become "The Four Horsemen" first romped under Tommy's direction. He played an important part in the development of a first light which never to be tendered a first string assignment at South Bend. He ruled with a soft hand, using what the ads might call "a pleasing personality," to get a lot of work done.

BOYS PASS IT ALONG

Thomas was one of the great successors of Notre Dame quarterbacks under Rockne. Before him was Brandy, who passed his knowledge along to the fat boy. And after Thomas came Stuhldreher, who handed his "stuff" down the line until it reached Carleton.

IT WAS NO PIPE

The task Thomas faced two years ago at Alabama was no bargain. He took up the job of teaching the Notre Dame system where something entirely different had been preached before. It begins to appear that he has done it pretty well.

Last year his team, far from slumping, led the nation in scoring, with 360 points, and won every game except that with Tennessee. This year Alabama again lost to Tennessee, but the Tide shares that defeat with a couple more pretty good elevens. Georgia Tech also pulled a surprise at Alabama's expense, but the recent victory over powerful St. Mary's helped to wipe that off the slate.

THE SHINING BARB

Tommy's ways with the boys are much like Rock's. He does not rave and bellow when mistakes are made, but carefully points out what is wrong. When he "rides" a player, he throws in the saving wisecrack that brings a grin to the offender's face.

Besides all that, he's a great little guy. The boys play for him.

TROY'S INJURED HERO TO HOLD KICKOFF BALL

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Intense rivalry of two great American football teams bowed today to a bit of sentiment.

The "Beau Geste" of allowing a twelfth man on the field for the opening kickoff was made by Coach "Hunk" Anderson of Notre Dame in consenting to let Orville Mohler resume his place in the ranks of the Southern California Trojans when the two teams met at Memorial stadium this afternoon.

The presence of the former great field general of Troy, whom injury cast into retirement just as he was within grasp of All-American honors, was to be determined by the turn of the coin. If Southern California won the toss and kicked off, Mohler was to hold the ball when the game started. Otherwise his entry awaited opening of the second half. In either event, he was to retire to the sidelines as soon as the ball spun over the heads of the foremost Raiders.

Mohler was disqualified from actual play because he was turned sports writer. His brief appearance was "only for sentiment," Anderson and Coach Howard Jones of U. S. C. explained.

Noting favored the Irish, odds reaching as high as 2 to 1 but prevailing at 10 to 7.

The situation puzzled many coast experts since Southern California's record seemed to entitle it to at least an even choice. The Trojans have won their last 15 games. Included in the string is a 16 to 14 victory over Notre Dame at South Bend last year.

Corner's Shout

Costs Volk K.O. In Second Round

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The next time Eddie Volk, young Portland fighter, steps into the ring he's either going to stuff cotton in his ears or gag his handlers.

A shout from his corner distracting his attention, cost him a two-round technical knockout last night from Bobby Pacheco.

The two were mixing merrily when Volk, hearing the shout, turned an attentive eye in that direction and received a dynamite punch on the jaw; stunned, he sought to stay on his feet but a barrage of blows from Pacheco's gloves floored him. The referee stopped the fight as the Oregon count reached his feet at the 10 count. The fight was scheduled for 10 rounds.

Improved Carnera

Defeats Levinsky

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's mammoth heavyweight, has outgrown the awkward stage. An effective left jab and a good right cross last night won him a one-sided 10-round victory over King Levinsky, wild and eager Chicago puncher.

SUTHERLAND LOOKS BACK ON PITT SEASON AND AHEAD TO ROSE BOWL GAME WITH S. C.

BY JOCK SUTHERLAND (Huntington Beach Coach)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—During the undefeated season through which the Pitt football team has just passed it seemed to me as though each time we needed a super bit of play to win or save off defeat that bit was there.

What will happen when we face Southern California in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day I cannot predict. I have taken two fine teams out there, teams which compare favorably with this year's team. But I think we will be better prepared than we were in either 1928 or 1929 when we played in the Bowl.

In every game this year's Pitt team has played, certain players have risen to the occasion and pulled his teammates through to win.

I do not hold the scoreless ties with Ohio State and Nebraska against us. I believe we had to have a pretty good team to hold Nebraska scoreless. The season has been more than satisfactory to me and, I believe, to my players.

There was one climax after another. Despite the scores, we had to play hard to win from West

ROAMING CAMERAMAN CATCHES SPORTS PICTURES HERE, THERE, EVERYWHERE

While Santa Ana and Santa Barbara high schools were fighting it out on a rain-soaked gridiron here this afternoon, Inglewood's mighty football machine was high and dry already positively assured of its place in the Southern California prep championship finals next Saturday.

Revealing more of the great power which has already heaped enormous commensals from officials and fans, Inglewood overpowered White, champion of the Foothill league by a score of 27 to 0 at Inglewood yesterday.

The Bay league representative, known as the Sentinels in their section, have shown so much all-around ability this season that they are favored to win the Southern California streamer no matter what the outcome of the Santa-Santa Barbara affair.

Inglewood's easy victory over Whittier, added to its 26-0 triumph over Pomona—Whittier, defeated San Diego—will send Coach Dick Arnett's well-coached club into the finals on the heavy end of the odds.

Theron Keller, 180-pound half-back and individual star of the all-Inglewood organization, scored all four touchdowns, one each quarter. The first touchdown climaxed a 20-yard march after Whittier's Porter had gotten off a poor punt from behind his own goal line. The second came after a 62-yard drive, the third when Keller broke loose for 38 yards, the fourth on a straightaway pass to Keller. Inglewood played, according to observers.

Whether it rained or not, Santa Ana and Santa Barbara were to play their semi-final tussle in the slush. Poly field was full of small pools by noon, especially near the center of the gridiron where the grass had been worn away.

Wet going was expected to prove more of a handicap to Santa Ana than Santa Barbara because the Saints were considerably overweighted in the line and their running attack was based on speed and deception rather than power.

The first touchdown climaxed a 20-yard march after Whittier's Porter had gotten off a poor punt from behind his own goal line. The second came after a 62-yard drive, the third when Keller broke loose for 38 yards, the fourth on a straightaway pass to Keller. Inglewood played, according to observers.

Whether it rained or not, Santa Ana and Santa Barbara were to play their semi-final tussle in the slush. Poly field was full of small pools by noon, especially near the center of the gridiron where the grass had been worn away.

Wet going was expected to prove more of a handicap to Santa Ana than Santa Barbara because the Saints were considerably overweighted in the line and their running attack was based on speed and deception rather than power.

CITIZENS ASK JUDGE SPENCE BE REINSTATED

FULLERTON, Dec. 10.—Following adjournment of merchants at the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce office last night, at which the committee waiting on the Fullerton city councilmen reported that the councilmen maintained they had been justified in declaring the office of the city recorder, Judge Halsey I. Spence, vacant, a mass meeting was held, and the 200 present declared for renewed efforts to get all voters' signatures on petitions to have the judge re-instated.

The committee that waited on the councilmen, William Potter and Bert Anner, who had voted for removal of the judge, was made up of H. A. Hillbold, Bill Gilmore, J. L. Roberts, Coy Long and Hubert Dawson.

Since action of three of the five councilmen, petitions have been circulating, and last night it was reported that 1000 signatures had been received.

Judge Spence's office of recorder was declared vacant by a majority vote of Councilmen Anner, who is now in the east, and Potter and Anner Tuesday night. Mayor William Hale and Councilman Ted Corcoran voted against removal.

Reasons given by Councilman Potter, who made the motion, were that it was considered best for the city, and the present board of trustees did not appoint him. Judge Spence said he knows no reason unless it was because the councilmen considered he had been too lenient in his decisions, but he had tried to temper the punishments to the depressing times.

Trees Topic As Newport Ebells Meets

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 10.—Christmas trees, motels, trees, unusual trees that would be good for beach planting, were all talked about and their merits discussed at yesterday's meeting of the garden section of the local Ebells.

The Christmas tree received the most attention. Its history, from its origin up to the present time, was related by those present. Dr. C. G. Huston, of Costa Mesa, is the head of the committee of the Orange County Coast association in a program for lighting the Coast boulevard from Seal Beach to San Clemente this Christmas season, spoke before the body, outlining a tree planting program along this stretch of road.

George Coleman, local artist, was present, showing some 10 or 12 of his paintings of trees.

The Christmas tree was used in the clubhouse decorations, much mountain greenery, holly, and poinsettias being used in the arrangement. Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Schellhaus and Mrs. Pearl Merrick.

The next regular meeting of the Ebells, falling on next Thursday, will be a Christmas party and a welfare food shower. A Christmas tree will be had and an exchange of "white elephant" gifts will be made. Dancing pupils from the Conrad school will give a dozen numbers to round out the afternoon program. The Ebells executive board members will be hostesses.

NEW QUARTERS COLLEGE NEED SAYS TRUSTEE

LA HABRA, Dec. 10.—Albert Laumer, Fullerton high school and junior college trustee, in a talk before the La Habra Kiwanis club Thursday noon, told members that the time was fast approaching when other arrangements will have to be made to care for the students who wish to attend the junior college at Fullerton. The present college enrollment is 777 and this number includes students from Fullerton and outside territory. The present high school campus on which the junior college is located is no longer adequate to care for the high school and junior college students, he said.

This particular problem is uppermost in the minds of all the trustees, who have discussed the affair very thoroughly, without reaching what they deemed a satisfactory solution, Laumer stated. Several tentative plans have been suggested but no actual recommendation has been made by the board, he said. The adoption of a 6-4-4 plan would be one means of remedying the situation but it is feared that taxpayers in other localities would not look with favor on this extra expense. The building of a junior college in Northern Orange county is another plan, he said.

Women of the Brea church have been asked as special guests for the afternoon.

Members are being asked to bring discarded toys which will be mended and freshened up for giving to needy children at Christmas. A silver offering will be taken to assist in buying scissors for the children of the health camp so that they may enjoy cutting out pictures.

Season's Gaiety Finds Expression in Smart Bridge Luncheon

Launching what promises to be an unusually enjoyable series of parties, Mrs. Lloyd A. Chenoweth and Mrs. James K. Hermon were at home Wednesday to friends bidden for luncheon and bridge in the Chenoweth home, 2025 North Broadway.

Christmas cheer was augmented by the charming arrangement of greens and Yuletide appointments, the whole effect of holiday friendliness increased by the luncheon table appointments. For each of the small linen-draped tables proudly bore its own small Christmas tree, tinseled and candied, and matched by the vivid place cards later used for bridge tables.

Mrs. Hermon and Mrs. Chenoweth had the assistance of Mrs. Lester Carden, Mrs. Coy Swindle and Mrs. Emory D. White in various details of entertaining their guests. Seven tables were called into service for the sessions of contract of the afternoon hours.

Holder of high score at each table received an advance Christmas gift, the prizes, awarded in duplicate, being gay with Yule-ribbons and tissues. They went to Mrs. John L. Wheeler, Mrs. Lester Carden, Mrs. William A. Flood, Mrs. Fred Rowland, Mrs. Allen George, Mrs. M. Burr Wellington and Mrs. Herbert Miller.

After the furor of the holidays has had time to abate, Mrs. Chenoweth and Mrs. Hermon will continue their friendly plans for informal entertaining.

Business Women Have Full Calendar of Coming Events

A number of Santa Ana Business and Professional Women's club members left today for Los Angeles to attend the Southern District board meeting held this afternoon and evening in the Elks club of that city.

The meeting, characterized by a dinner and program, is one of several interesting ones on the B. P. W. calendar. Another scheduled for tomorrow in the Student Union building on the U. S. C. campus, is that of District No. 3, California League of Business and Professional Women. Tomorrow's session opens at 9:30 a. m., and the Santa Ana club was invited to be present through the president, Mrs. Adelaide Cochran.

Another invitation extended through Mrs. Cochran, was to the Riverside club meeting and dinner in Glenwood Mission Inn on Friday night, December 16. The Institute of World Affairs will provide the keynote of the program, and Santa Ana members who find it possible to be present, should telephone Mrs. Cochran at 5190, well in advance of the date.

Despite these outside interests, local club members are making special plans for their own Christmas party, which has been announced by the December social chairman, Miss Elizabeth Percival, as a dinner on Monday, December 19 in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe. Reservations for this must be made by next Saturday at the latest, and it is hoped to make it a reunion of all former members. Clubwomen will put their Christmas plans into effect by taking on that night, their boxes for those who are less fortunate than themselves. Miss Alma Karlsson has aided by making out a list of names of those to whom these boxes are to be sent, and Miss Lena Thomas has the list and will gladly give the names to those who call her at the First National bank. The boxes are to be made up of little gifts and delicacies, avoiding the usual staple groceries which will go out in Christmas allotments as needed.

Family Group Shares Pleasant Party in Orange Home

Since the Orange home of Mrs. S. W. Andrews and Miss Adelaide Proctor had served as wedding setting when Miss Louise Proctor became Mrs. Ethan Louderback in August, 1931, it seemed especially appropriate that it should receive guests who wished to honor Mrs. Louderback at a delightfully intimate shower given yesterday afternoon.

In honoring their niece, the hostesses entertained a group of relatives, beginning the affair with an appetizing luncheon served at 1 o'clock. Table appointments included seasonal flowers and tiny candy storks bearing baby pictures in their slender bills. Flowers in delicate tins had been arranged throughout the home.

An informal afternoon of sewing was interspersed with musical selections by the honoree's sister, Miss Dorothy Proctor and Miss Adelaide Proctor, who played piano numbers. Mrs. W. J. Hanna sang solos.

Not the least interesting of the afternoon's events was the presentation of an array of daintily wrapped gifts to Mrs. Louderback. Those asked to share the hospitality of Mrs. Andrews and Miss Proctor were the honoree, Mrs. Louderback, and her mother and sister, Mrs. W. A. Proctor and Miss Dorothy Proctor of Santa Ana; Mrs. Louderback's great aunt, Mrs. L. H. Tubbs of Inglewood; Mrs. W. J. Hanna of Monrovia; Miss Gladys Neff of Anaheim; Mrs. Alfred Higgins and Mrs. Alfred Proctor and baby son, Alfred III, of Orange; Mr. Louderback's mother, Mrs. Ivy Louderback and Mrs. W. R. Proctor of Long Beach.

Bridge Club Members Motor to Cypress For Gay Party

Pleasant club associations were renewed Wednesday evening for a little group of bridge players who motored to Cypress to be entertained most delightfully by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard White, former Santa Anans, now making their home in that community.

Women of the group made it a covered dish dinner affair, each one contributing her favorite dish to the menu, for whose serving Mrs. White arranged the dining room quite effectively, using violets to adorn the table and dainty place cards which later served to record bridge scores.

In the after-dinner card contest, the pretty prizes chosen by the hosts went to Mrs. Earl Lepper and Louis Bittle, holders of high scores, and Mrs. J. F. Jacoby and Arthur Kittelson, whose scores were low.

In the party in addition to Mr. and Mrs. White were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kittelson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lepper, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bittle and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jacoby, all of Santa Ana.

Hosts Greet Members Of Bridge Club at Evening Party

Mr. and Mrs. Philip LaLonde were hosts at the latest meeting of a friendly group of bridge players to which they belong, welcoming their guests to their home, 906 North Flower street, for an enjoyable evening.

Flowers arranged artistically through the home, contributed to the cheerfulness of the scene as members gathered around the card tables with their gay covers. Mrs. Louis Bittle and William Stanford made the evening's high scores and were suitably rewarded, while consolation gift went to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Brown.

Card tables were put to further use after the prizes were awarded, when Mrs. LaLonde spread each one with a dainty cloth and arranged it for serving refreshments.

Present in addition to the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. LaLonde, were Mr. and Mrs. William Stanford, of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Neer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bittle, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lepper.

Legion Auxiliary Party Triumph Assures Aid For War Veterans

As proportionately large, for the year, as have been similar functions in the past which have enjoyed the sponsorship of the Santa Ana American Legion auxiliary, program was fully realized yesterday last night in Legion hall. Proceeds from the entertainment, amounting to a significant sum, will establish a Christmas fund from which San Fernando hospital veterans and their families will be aided, it was pointed out by Mrs. S. C. Hill, auxiliary president, and Mrs. George Sullivan, party chairman.

Twenty-five tables within a space set off by two immense Christmas trees, were filled by auxiliary members and their guests. Great clusters of poinsettias in containers about the room and at intervals along the refreshment tables added color to the room, as did the clear Christmas tree tallies to the bridge tables.

Presentation of awards for the evening was climaxed with the awarding to Mrs. Sidney Allender of the cedar chest filled and given away each Christmas by the auxiliary. Bridge prizes were bestowed upon Mrs. A. J. Anderson, high; Mrs. Harry Pickard, second; Miss Gertrude Hellis, low; and Messrs. Roy King, high; Harold Carnahan, second; E. L. Redford, low.

With the floor cleared for dancing, guests passed the remainder of the evening in this wise to music volunteered by "Bud" Hartman and a four piece orchestra.

Steamed puddings, homemade fudge and coffee were served from refreshment tables handsomely decorated with holders of red crepe paper, hung with silver tinsel, and their three-branched candles. These artistic contrivances were made by the party committee under the direction of Mrs. Sullivan. Superintending party arrangements were Mrs. George Sullivan; Mesdames J. B. Tucker, Elizabeth Lewis, Harold Brown, Charles Nussbaumer, Harold Rasmussen and Fred E. Eare.

Economics Women Enjoy Christmas Luncheon And Program

The pleasure with which women of the Fourth Household Economics section of Ebelt anticipated their December Christmas program was fully realized yesterday afternoon, when members of the group gathered at the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe for a luncheon of holiday motif before repairing for their program to the residence of Mrs. S. J. Hales, 1307 North Main street.

Members were greeted at the tea shop by a quartet of hostesses, composed of Mrs. S. J. Hales, Mrs. F. E. Moore, Mrs. Clyde Bach and Mrs. Walter E. Watkins, and by Mrs. Herbert Krahling, section leader.

A T-shaped luncheon table was artistically appointed, bearing Christmas decoration of a graceful type. The traditional Yuletide color combination of red and green found pretty expression in nautops and candles of these shades. Place cards, depicting Christmas scenes, further heightened the color of the table.

Motoring the few blocks between the tea shop and their hostesses' home, members were made speedily welcome in the lovely Hales residence, a "Merry Christmas" sign greeting them at the door, and a lighted tree repeating the greeting within. Guests found places in a darkened room to view amateur motion pictures of Europe shown by Miss Constance Cruickshank.

Immediately following these were served guests from a table lit by green tapers, this and other hospitality being dispensed by Mrs. Besser and a committee consisting of Mesdames Paul Cozad, N. E. Meister and Edward O'Malley.

Amber Circle Enjoys Luncheon and Gift Exchange

In holding their annual Christmas party Thursday afternoon, members of Amber Circle did not confine their expression of Christmas cheer to the holiday luncheon and gift exchange which were pleasant features of the day, but provided a large amount of canned goods and staples to be distributed among some of the community's needy.

At the luncheon hour guests were seated at a long table made Christmas-like with poinsettias and red and yellow candles. The menu was served under the capable direction of Mrs. A. A. Brock, whose committee included Mesdames Brooks, Jettie Decker, Bell Dobson, Henry Diers, Leota Allen and Miss Ada Cave.

Guests found the colorful holiday atmosphere continued in the lounge, where Miss Henrietta Bohling had arranged all in readiness for a gift exchange. Brilliant stars decking a Christmas tree, bore numbers which corresponded with those on the prettily wrapped packages distributed.

A short business session was in charge of the new president, Miss Bohling. Announcement was made that the next circle meeting is to be held January 12, with Mrs. Amber Burke serving as chairman for the month.

Members divided attention for the remainder of the afternoon between bridge and sewing. Mrs. Edith J. Snow and Mrs. Leona Miller scored high and low at cards, while Mrs. Gammel won the sewing award.

New Funds Acquired by V. F. W. Auxiliary For Yule Work

The Christmas relief work launched this month by organizations the city over, was given additional impetus Wednesday night by the successful benefit card event staged by Ernest L. Kellogg auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Besser, 2212 North Ross street.

On entering the home, guests were at once initiated into a Christmas mood by the chiming which rang as they touched the bell. A great Christmas tree, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Soyland, members of the post and auxiliary, and other seasonal appointments were important holiday aspects. Chrysanthemums were profusely employed in further decoration.

Approximately half a hundred members of auxiliary and post were entertained at bridge and 500 during the course of the evening, with tastefully chosen awards going to high and low scorer among both men and women at each of the two games. Bridge winners were Mrs. Bertha Fitzpatrick of Anaheim, high, and Mrs. Charles E. Hyatt, low; William Isbell of Orange, high, and Guy Crowell, low. Prizes at 500 were claimed by Mrs. Edward O'Malley, high, and Mrs. E. Elizabeth Brown, of Colorado Springs, guest of Mrs. Charles E. Hyatt, low; William Butterfield, high, and Frank Besser, low.

Sandwiches, relishes and coffee were served guests from a table lit by green tapers, this and other hospitality being dispensed by Mrs. Besser and a committee consisting of Mesdames Paul Cozad, N. E. Meister and Edward O'Malley.

Voters' League Plans For December 16 Program

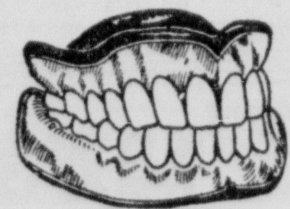

When members of Santa Ana League of Women Voters meet Friday afternoon, December 16 at 2:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A., they plan to continue the same study which was taken up at the November meeting, namely, "Reorganization of the State Department of Education," it was announced today.

Mrs. Anita Alexander, chairman of education, will be in charge of the program, which is to include other phases of the educational schedule of the league. There will be discussion of state printing of text books; creation of a Federal department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet; school financing and the revision of California Teachers' tenure act.

Members of the State League's legislative committee are busy conferring with the rules committee of the state legislature in an effort to amend the rules to prevent the use of skeleton bills and the substitution of material different in content from the bill as originally presented. The League anticipates a busy season after the legislature convenes in January.

The Santa Ana League has been urged to study the report of the Carnegie Foundation on "State Higher Education in California." This survey was made at the request of the 1931 legislature for the purpose of determining a suitable future policy and plan of operation for tax supported institutions that are beyond high school grade.

All interested in the work of the league, are invited to attend the next meeting.

Charms of Intimacy at Country Club Bridge Induced by Setting

Country club members who last night assembled for the December bridge evening, found the clubhouse especially inviting, with tables grouped close to a big fire, blazing cheerfully on the wide hearth in true holiday fashion.

The friendly intimacy induced by the surroundings, was heightened by the card contest in which Mrs. Charles Cogan and Howard Rapp took honors, with Mrs. F. F. Mead and Eugene Fenelon as their nearest competitors. Each of the four received an attractive gift awarded by the host group, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Blodgett and Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Davis.

Indeed the evening was so delightful for the guests that they were reluctant to bring it to a close, so when cake was served with coffee and hot chocolate in the after-bridge interval, they remained in friendly conversation around the glowing fire until long past the midnight hour.

Christmas week is being anticipated by all the club members as it will include as one of the major social functions, the holiday dance at the clubhouse, scheduled for Friday night, December 23. The date was selected to coincide with the presence in the city of so many young people home from college for the holidays. The dance therefore promises to be unusually delightful in all details. The Louise Shlerry orchestra, popular with young and old, will furnish the music.

Second of Benefit Party Series Given

The second of a series of benefit card parties was given Thursday evening by Orange County Kill Willies, who entertained a large group of friends in the clubrooms of the Southern Counties Gas company.

About 60 guests took part in the games of bridge, 500 and bunco. Louise McCain and Harold Smith held high scores for bridge, while Mrs. Charles Carlson and Joe Pimo were consoling. In 500, Mrs. Carl Strenberg and Powell Loran scored high and Mrs. John Reynolds and George Daws, of Anaheim, low.

Mrs. George Ray received a special award. Mrs. W. Workman, of Chicago, who is visiting in the home of her son, Dr. James Workman, won first prize for bunco and also won a special award, a turkey. Dr. Estelle Workman was appropriately rewarded for having the greatest number of guests present.

To conclude the evening, refreshments were served at bridge tables made attractive with dainty linens and Christmas decoration. After the Kill Willies had given a musical program, Dr. James Workman gave a short talk.

Members of the Kill Willies, who appear in programs every week over KREG include Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Babcock, Frederick Sanford, Edward Beaudette, Le Roy Finster and Homer Fuller. Mrs. Sanford assisted serving refreshments.

HouseholdGala Christmas Program
In Store for Patrons
Of Barn Thursday

Santa Ana Community Players cannot complain of lack of a Santa Claus so far as this month's Barn program is concerned, according to plans disclosed Thursday by Mrs. Marshall Harms, December chairman, who has superintended arrangements for the annual Christmas entertainment, scheduled for Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Instrumental music, drama, carol singing, a Christmas tree and other features will go into the making of a holiday program planned to satisfy every taste represented at the Barn next Thursday.

The Christmas theme will run through the entire program, from a one-act play being prepared under the direction of Harriet Owens Enderle, in which are cast Miss Clara Kate Owens and Victor Tees, to an elaborate musical which will include happy selections of holiday mood, by Miss Ruth Oakes, gifted Santa Ana musician; two groups of songs by the Santa Ana Junior college male quartet; and a Viennese violin composition, to be played by Georgia Belle Walton, December music chairman. The latter number was requested because of the Viennese setting and authorship of the play.

Two surprise features are planned, in addition to the above, one to be staged by members of the recently formed Workshop group, and the other to be an announcement in the form of an announcement which Barn members are assured will be of interest to every player.

Mrs. Warren Fletcher again will have charge of the distribution of the Christmas toys, brought each year for children of the community. Barn members were reminded today of this annual privilege and urged to remember to bring small gifts for this yearly charity.

Refreshments of a suitable Christmas nature and festive decorations are being supervised by the December Barn committee, consisting of Mesdames Marshall Harms, chairman; Harriet Owens Enderle, Arthur Lyon, T. E. Stephenson, Robert C. Northcross, Miss Margaret Cummings, Miss Georgia Walton, Messrs. Wylie Carlyle, Robert Northcross and Burr Shaffer.

Past Presidents Elect
Officers Following
Luncheon

A merry holiday party which started with a luncheon in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe and concluded with election of officers and a social time in the home of Mrs. George Smith, 316 French street, was held Thursday afternoon by members of Past Presidents' club of Santa Ana. Round table, Daughters of Union Veterans.

Mrs. Maude Sutton was named new president of the club and Mrs. Nellie Parker, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Edith Moore, president, was in charge of the business session.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Lena Hewitt were hostesses at the event. Guests were seated at a gayly decorated table centered with a white Christmas tree. They found placecards of special significance, for they were Christmas greetings bearing photographs of the club members. These pictures had been taken just a short time ago.

Adjourning to Mrs. Smith's home, members took part in a gift exchange.

Those present were Mrs. Hewitt and Mrs. Smith, the hostesses, and Mesdames Floss La Bount, Esther Gardner, Eva Bell, Nellie Parker, Edith Moore, Louise Leuch, Elizabeth Adams, Maude Sutton, Margaret Robertson, Mae Thomas and the Misses Bertha Belt and Minnie Cowan.

Church Societies

First Methodist. The spirit of Christmas inspired the theme for a meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church held Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. R. A. Lutes, in charge. Mrs. Harry Chapman led devotions, after which there was group singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Dama Smith read a letter from the conference secretary, asking that the local society assume responsibility for a needy Home Missionary pastor and family at the Christmas time. It was voted to provide a box for some family, and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Frank Stockbrand were named in charge of contributions.

Mrs. J. W. McCormack told of a recent visit made to the Frances De Pauw school in Los Angeles by members of the local Queen Esther organization. Mrs. W. D. Baker read a letter from Miss Josephine Gleda, now a student at Kansas City National Training school, making a plea for funds with which to keep up current expenses of home and school in the conference.

Following the suggestion of Mrs. S. M. Davis, the society voted to endorse two resolutions now pending in the legislature.

The Christmas theme will run through the entire program, from a one-act play being prepared under the direction of Harriet Owens Enderle, in which are cast Miss Clara Kate Owens and Victor Tees, to an elaborate musical which will include happy selections of holiday mood, by Miss Ruth Oakes, gifted Santa Ana musician; two groups of songs by the Santa Ana Junior college male quartet; and a Viennese violin composition, to be played by Georgia Belle Walton, December music chairman.

LIFE STORY OF FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

By
Leland M. Ross and Allan W. Grobin

(This intimate story of the life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, beginning with the time his father took him as a 5-year-old to call on his close friend, Grover Cleveland, then President of the United States, carries the reader through an interesting boyhood on the family farm at Hyde Park, N. Y., his student days at Groton, Harvard and Columbia Law School, and the development of his political career, which began with a New York State Senatorship. This biography is entirely authentic. Recent installments told of F. D.'s courageous fight against the after-effects of infantile paralysis and of the work of the Warm Springs Foundation, which he established in Georgia after deriving great benefits from the baths there. In 1928 he worked for the nomination and election as President of Alfred E. Smith, and although the national ticket was beaten, he was elected governor of New York, running far ahead of the national ticket. Roosevelt faced a hostile Republican legislature and one of his big fights was over hydro-electric power.)

INSTALLMENT 23.

Under Governor Hughes the legislature had given a charter to the Aluminum Company of America (Andrew Mellon's company) to develop the Long Sault Rapids in the international section of the St. Lawrence River. At that point the river drops eighty feet in a distance of a few miles and has a potential 2,500,000 horse power, of which one-half, or 1,250,000 horse power, is in New York State. It is the largest all-year-round power possibility in all North America.

At that time the American people had not yet realized what an important part electrical energy was to play in the development of modern civilization. But the younger element in the legislature of 1912 did realize.

Alfred E. Smith, Robert Wagner, James J. Walker, James Foley, Franklin D. Roosevelt—these legislators awoke suddenly to the fact that the state had given away the heritage of the people for nothing. At once they started agitation for its recovery.

Under the leadership of these "Youngsters"—prominent among whom was Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt—the legislature reconsidered, and finally repealed the charter grant. The revocation was made on the technical ground that the company had done nothing to develop its right.

Nothing more was done at that time. The Aluminum company did not take further steps until Alfred E. Smith became governor. Then, during his second administration, it sought to revive its claim to the St. Lawrence. The effort was made through the Water Control Commission, and that body was dominated by a Republican attorney-general, a Republican state engineer and a Republican controller.

But Governor Smith blocked the whole movement by saying definitely that he would appeal to the people of the state; and would exercise his veto power wherever possible to stop any attempt on the part of private interests to obtain control of the rapids.

At that time Smith adopted the definite policy—which became the Democratic policy—that the St. Lawrence power should be developed by the state or by a state authority, that the power should be sold to private companies for distribution, the companies to sell to the consumer at the lowest possible price. For six years Smith tried to get a bill embodying that plan through the Republican legislature. And for six years the Republicans were able to thwart him.

When in 1929 Franklin D. Roosevelt came into office as governor he adopted all of Smith's program—and went one step further. In addition to state development of the power site, he recommended that the power be sold and distributed by the private companies under the contract method and under the proviso that the companies would guarantee a rate of return on their investment. In other words, to stop the stock watering which had gone on for many years under Federal Court decisions. Governor Roosevelt made his appeal to the people along educational lines—and his first medium for the electrical education was the new electrical invention—the radio!

Increasing public understanding and rapidly growing public interest was at once apparent. In 1929, however, the Republican legislators turned a deaf ear to the St. Lawrence plan. That they paid dearly in political currency was so obvious that in 1930 they passed a bill authorizing the governor to appoint a committee to investigate his plan and report on its feasibility.

The program whereby Roosevelt had hoped to force the Republicans permanently to protect the people's water rights was in the nature of a siege. He broadcast innumerable speeches through the microphone at the executive mansion. He made public addresses throughout the state. He resumed the numerous newspaper and magazine articles he had used when Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

In the Forum of November, 1929, he wrote: "The real milk in the electrical coconut is the question as to which view the people of this country want to take. In the one case they will accept the obvious hope of the electric utility companies to receive returns on all the pyramiding of stocks which has gone on through mergers and consolidations. . . . On the other hand the public can insist on going back to the principles that have stood for 300 years, differentiating sharply between a public utility and a private business."

In a speech at Syracuse, N. Y., he explained further:

"The underlying theory concerning all public utilities is that they receive the privilege of the special franchise from the people of the state themselves and that for this privilege they must give the best and cheapest possible service to all citizens of the state."

Roosevelt neglected no chance to dramatize the issue. He translated every phase of it into vivid, concise form so that every voter in the commonwealth could easily and thoroughly understand it.

And he fought the legislature with an alertness unparalleled in Albany. Every move to obscure the issue was promptly parried. Every threat to the power site itself was instantly crushed.

No man was better fitted to make the fight. Because no man sensed more keenly the importance of cheap power. By birth and by choice he was a family-life man. The household to him really represented the backbone, the natural center of life. Bring an additional touch of brightness to the living-room, render the tasks of the kitchen less difficult, and one thereby reached the people where they really lived.

Born and reared in the country by parents whose ancestors for six generations had loved the land, he knew what vital things modern electrical improvements could accomplish towards making rural life more attractive.

"I want to see every farm home have electricity," he said. "But inequalities have barred it from most of them. . . . Why does electricity in the home cost as high as from 15 to 20 cents per kilowatt hour in some localities and as low as from four to six in others?"

Roosevelt saw bloodless corporations standing in the way of natural progress. Trusts not only seizing unreasonable and unfair profits that belonged in part to the people but by their greediness actually preventing the natural benefits of electrical invention from becoming a universal boon. To him the important things of the world were still—as in his legislative days—living things. It was an apostasy indeed when mechanical systems robbed living people of their rightful inheritances!

F. D.'s tactics were peculiarly his own—were based upon his conception of his function as governor. It was the people's government. The statesman's duty was to bring the whole truth clearly and forcefully to the voters. The rest belonged to them; and an aroused public would act—as it saw fit. No governor could expect more.

He had set about informing and awakening.

It was, after all, a simple matter. The State owned the bed of the St. Lawrence from its southern shore to the international boundary line in the middle; and had the right to say what should be done with the water passing over that bed. The private corporations wanted leases on those rights; but the best interests of the people dictated that the state itself should develop the power.

There were very definite reasons why private exploitation was dangerous. Roosevelt expressed it as succinctly:

"Very recently, the greater part of all electrical companies in New York State were merged into three great holding companies and within the last few months those three great holding companies have been merged into one colossal holding company."

"That holding company controls today over three-fourths of the entire area of New York State!"

The holding company was the Niagara-Hudson Company—dominated by the house of J. P. Morgan! Ramifications extended through other holding firms. The gigantic Aluminum Company of America—the old 1912 threat—was involved; in 1929 it sold its St. Lawrence "rights" to Niagara-Hudson.

The earlier mergers had all been made on the pretext of lower production costs; yet these benefits had not been permitted to reach the consumer in the form of lower rates. On the contrary, costs to the user had been kept up. Such development meant that colossal combines were at least a potential public menace.

"We are confronted," said F. D., "with a menace which may call forth a new declaration of independence. The huge mergers which are going on today are challenging in their power the very government itself."

As the $500,000,000 Morgan corporation rapidly increased its influence, Roosevelt became emphatic in his stand. He stated that action by the state was "imperative;" he warned the company he would fight any bid for control of the St. Lawrence and would veto any application for a permit to develop it.

"Let us make no mistake," he said. "Public utility corporations must never be our masters. They must be our servants. . . . well paid, as all good servants should be, but our servants still." (Copyright, 1932, E. P. Dutton, Inc.)

COME to CHURCH

Jerusalem, Nazareth. The well of the Virgin Mary, Mother of Jesus. It is strange to know that today, after centuries of years, its water is still used by Palestinians and worshipping visitors as a cleansing ablution.

THE divine birth of Jesus and the blessed Motherhood of the Virgin Mary have served as spiritual inspiration to all generations. The Church has been the everlasting memorial to the nobility of soul and beauty of purpose which Mother and Son cast before them in shining words of gospel. Let us seek joy and salvation at its altar, and solace in the strains of holy music.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Christians' Use of Leisure

Text: Neh. 8:10-17; Mark 6:30-32.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 11.

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

There are a great number of people in America, both Christian and non-Christian, who have had of late more leisure than anything else. One of the most serious problems of unemployment is that relatively few people know how to make good and profitable use of time that is not engaged in needful rest or in actual work; and when people are confronted with more leisure than they already know what to do with, the problem is accentuated many fold.

The art of using leisure well, however, is not confined to the unemployed. No sensible person wants to allow any part of his life to be useless or wasted. He wants to employ his leisure time as profitably as any other part of his time, allowing, of course, for the fact that leisure would not be leisure if it were filled with hard and difficult tasks.

A farmer, who was a very busy worker himself, once asked me how it was that so many people could gather together to listen to Jesus wherever he happened to be speaking. He seemed to think that the people of ancient Palestine had rather an easy time.

However, when we recall that a little country like Galilee had probably a population of two million people in the days of Christ, we can understand that it was not remarkable that crowds of several hundreds should almost always have been available to listen to anyone who could tell them an interesting story or who could give them some new and remarkable teaching.

Our leisure time ought to have the same values for us. It ought to give us rest and refreshment, ending us to our real work with new vigor, and it ought to provide us with the help and vision that come from reflection.

In the busy work of life often we do not have time to think or to see our tasks in perspective, but with the leisure that every honest and faithful worker ought to have, work itself becomes more intelligently conceived and directed.

The Bible, while it lays great stress upon work, lays also great stress upon rest and leisure. The Sabbath and the Christian Sunday, whatever may have been their distant origin, seem to be peculiar to the religion that has its source in Palestine.

Our modern world with its rush and speed, and its disregard of the need of any rest day, is strangely at variance in its idealism and wisdom with the discernment and practice of Jews and

Christians who have laid great stress upon the need of a day of rest.

In addition to this weekly rest day it is interesting to discover how much of the holiday and festival spirit there was in the life of the Jewish people. We can set altogether too light a value on the communal aspect of life in any community which lays stress upon this festival and holiday spirit.

With the progress of machine civilization, when machines are very sadly displacing enormous numbers of men, one solution for the machine would be to let the machine do more of the work than men have done and free humanity for a larger life of leisure and play.

That seems, in fact, to be the only solution for the problems of our enormously increased machine production. But if that solution comes, it will put upon men and women more than ever before the obligation to find the means of using their leisure well. In the teaching and practice of Jesus he laid much stress upon rest and prayer, and there is something invigorating and significant in the example of one who spent so much time in the fields and in the desert places in communion with nature as well as in communion with God and man.

'ROCKABYE' TO SHOW HERE ON THURSDAY

The pathetic difficulty of making a silk purse out of a sow's ear is revealingly shown in RKO-Pathe Pictures' "Rockabye," coming next Thursday to the Fox Broadway theater with Constance Bennett starred.

Miss Bennett progressively portrays the roles of a child of the streets, a growing girl, a "torch singer," and lastly an actress who rises to become a sensation in London and New York.

Always the past rises up to humiliate and defeat her, a Nemesis-like shadow she cannot ignore or overcome. The role marks her first venture into the deep waters of tragic drama.

Magnolia P.-T. A. Hears Educator

STANTON, Dec. 10.—Arthur Corey, superintendent of the Buena Park grammar schools, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Magnolia P.-T. A. This week. He conducted an informal discussion of problems relating to child life, education and the present economic condition.

Miss Carolyn Gibson presented a musical program which included a piano solo by Donna Saw, a reading, "A Telephone Message to Santa Claus," by Dorothy Sharp; a song and tap dance by Doris June Ellis, and a piano solo by Elaine Winger.

The study circle will meet the afternoon of December 14 at the home of Mrs. Sam Benson on Stanton avenue. The meeting has been advanced on account of Christmas.

SEEK DRASTIC CUTS IN BEACH CITY EXPENSES

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 10.—Recommendations urging drastic cuts in expenditures by the city of Newport Beach will be presented by a committee of taxpayers at a meeting of the city council Monday night.

Savings of $40,000 to $50,000 yearly are possible if the council follows the committee's recommendations, it is declared by J. J. Schnitzer and Glen Helms, members of the committee.

Resolutions ask the council not to hire more than one man from a household and not to employ any one who has sufficient outside income. They call for the elimination of all but one man in the engineer's office. The city has 35 cars and trucks and the committee feels that this is too many. It is pointed out that Fullerton has but 14 vehicles in city service and Orange but eight.

The suggestions made by the committee call for discharge of all city employees to be followed by certain changes in the wage scale, and giving all discharged employees opportunity to be re-employed in the former position at the new wage scale, excepting those positions it is decided to abandon. Recommendations call for paying laborers at 50 cents an hour and employing them six days a week.

Beach Auxiliary In Dinner Affair

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 10.—The auxiliary of Anaheim Bay post No. 306, American Legion, gave a pot luck dinner Thursday night with the members of the Legion as their guests. Dagmar Schmidt, Edna Burns and Clita Thompson were in charge for the evening with Mrs. Holland and Pierpont as dinner chairmen. The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers. Cards were played in the evening with various games for the children.

As part of their welfare work this month the auxiliary is sewing afghans for the wheel chair patients of the Santa Fe Veterans' hospital. Each month the women visit the hospital and take gifts of various sorts.

In place of a program the P.-T.A. by-laws were read. Plans were made for Christmas. An operetta will be held in the auditorium December 16. During the afternoon of that date individual parties will be held by each class.

Present Operetta At Beach Dec. 16

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 10.—At the P.-T.A. meeting this week the question of police protection at the Twelfth street P.E. crossing was discussed. Mr. McGaugh, principal of the grammar school, was made a committee of one to investigate. He said that it would not be necessary to have this protection if the parents were instructed to keep the children at home until 8:30 o'clock in the morning as the P.E. car reached that crossing at 8:27 o'clock.

In place of a program the P.-T.A. by-laws were read. Plans were made for Christmas. An operetta will be held in the auditorium December 16. During the afternoon of that date individual parties will be held by each class.

Special Service For Wintersburg Church Sunday

WINTERSBURG, Dec. 10.—A "firelighting" service, which is arranged especially by Rev. B. Barr, evangelist, who is closing a successful three weeks of revival services at the Wintersburg Methodist church, is announced for Sunday evening, the 40 or more young people who have answered the altar call during the service to be the special guests of this occasion.

At the 10:30 o'clock service Sunday morning, the closing day of the meetings, Mr. Barr will speak to children of the fourth to eighth grade at the Wintersburg library, while the pastor, the Rev. W. A. Matson, will occupy the pulpit at the regular church service in the auditorium.

Special musical features were held in connection with the services Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, a quartet composed of fathers and sons of the Mennonite church of Los Angeles, and a quartet of young men from Santa Ana, singing.

Mesa Teachers At Card Affair

COSTA MESA, Dec. 10.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Jones, of Elden avenue, was the scene of a merry gathering this week when they were entertained informally in honor of faculty friends, Mrs. Jones being principal of the Lindbergh school. The evening was spent playing bridge and "500."

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arden Long, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hice, Mrs. Edith West, Mrs. Martha Pickenpaugh, Mrs. Lucy Stirkwood, Miss Lena Brown, A. Hastie, J. Pompelli, Miss Mildred Dack, Miss Gretha Clark and George V. Frink.

THE TYNMIES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The wee king's horses and his men marched down the court and back again. The king, of course, was very proud. "They're mighty fine," said he.

"I've trained them all to fight all well and also ride around pell. Whenever I ride around the town they are protecting me."

"There's only one thing that I fear. It's something that means trouble here. The dickens dwarfs in the woods, don't they say?"

"If they should come and start fight, I fear things would not turn out right. It always keeps me worried, 'cause they may come any day."

... ..

You see, they're really full of it but, my, oh my, the things they've done. They're all full of dickens and they wreck things all right.

They stormed the castle weeks and they'll return some day, I know. They race around and when they leave, the whole place looks a sight.

My little soldiers are too small, really are no match at all. As then they heard a bugle, "I'm right," the wee king cried.

"That bugle means the dwarfs are near. We're in for trouble now, fear." He rushed up to a window and continued, "They're outside."

... ..

Wee Duncy promptly stuck his head out of the window. Then he said, "Oh, don't you fret about wee dwarfs. I'll shoot them all away."

REALTORS CALL FOR CUTS IN TAX EXPENSES

"I can see that these last three years of liquidation give us opportunity for development. Those centralized units are going to revert back to the people on the land. Credit is becoming real again. Values will be rebuilt. It is not a quick but it is a sure recovery."

Calls For Reduction

The speaker concluded his address by stating that the state association had gone on record to continue the program of tax reduction started last year.

Williamson talked briefly regarding tax matters and proposed legislation which the state association hopes to get through at the next session of the state legislature.

The speaker declared governmental costs should be reduced 25 per cent. He attributed the success of the Democratic party to the repeal of dry laws, but because of the clause in the platform which promised a 25 per cent cut in governmental expenditures. He pointed out that business has been forced to cut even more than this.

Legislation which will be taken up by the association regards the trust deed, joint tenancy, reduction of penalties for delinquent taxes, limiting the amount of taxes including rate and expenditures, repeal of the real estate broker bond and other matters, Williamson said.

Sees Better Times

The state president brought a careful message of hope and optimism for business recovery. "I see an opportunity to do business and to prosper as never before in the history of our business," he declared.

"In the development of commerce and business," he said, "we are a little careless in allowing the costs of government to rest too largely upon the backbone of the nation. The result has been that the cost of ownership has been increased."

Units of business began to stir until the structure became heavy. Cumulative and ingenious sold stocks and bonds and had was fastened on people not born and for which there was

Miller, who is in the Orange county hospital suffering from a basal fracture of the skull, two broken legs and other injuries, has never regained consciousness since the accident.

He and a friend were returning to the hospital from a lunch stand down the road from the hospital at the time he was struck. Hospital attendants said today he had little chance to recover.

"V" BOARD TO STUDENTS EXPELLED FOR ARMS REFUSAL

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 10.—(UP)—The board of regents of the University of Maryland by unanimous vote upheld the suspension of two sophomores who refused to take military training.

The youths, Wayne Lees and Ennis Coale, appealed to the regents after university officials suspended them. The board held that compulsory military training will continue at the university unless the state legislature rules otherwise.

THEATER PARTIES, TEAS AND RODEOS ENLIVEN JAYSEE LIFE

Bright poinsettias with tall red tapers in candelabra throughout the rooms made a cheerful setting for the tea held recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Northcross, 1318 Spurgeon street, honoring women of the junior college commerce department. This was the third of a series of teas being given by the Jaycee Associated Women students for the purpose of bringing together new students of the various departments.

In the receiving line were the Misses Helen Bower, Ruth Souder, Lorene Shippe and Mrs. Robert Northcross. Miss Bower and Miss Shippe also presided at the tea table which further carried out the holiday decorations. Miss Dora Tedford assisted them.

Miss Bower was in charge of the afternoon and was assisted by the Misses Angelina Drayness, Betty Vorce, Elizabeth Drysdale, Margaret Fine, Beryl Willets, Ruth Souder, Lorene Shippe, Dora Tedford and Charlotte Richardson.

See German Film

In resuming club activities members of Jaycee German club attended the production of a German picture in Long Beach Tuesday and Thursday. Members reported that the picture, "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," was extremely educational in the matter of dialogue and in customs and scenery of Germany.

Those attending Tuesday were Miss Edna Bargsten, Arnold Mueller, Harold Pittman, William Blonchard, Miss Carolyn Mueller and Miss Katherine Gorath. Members who saw the picture Thursday were Miss Lella Watson, adviser, Miss Eugenia Bode, Miss Betty Whitney, Everard Stovell, Paul Jungkeit, Theodore Groenou and Reed Sutherland.

Successful Rodeo

Roped, tied and branded and then herded together around a campfire, new members of the Jaycee Women's Athletic association were initiated Wednesday night at a roundup held in Andrews gymnasium. This was the first of the W.A.A. spreads following the finish of the sport season.

Riding costumes prevailed and Miss Alverda West led Bob and gallop into the dinner which was served on saw horse tables with clever place cards to correspond. Candles in old bottles provided the only light during the dinner hour.

Following initiation were games which included "stampede," Virginia reel and others. A "horse" consisting of a saddled barrel provided amusement for those who attempted to ride the "bucking bronco." Miss Dorothy Mason contributed a tap dance to the program, accompanied by Miss Alta Fisher at the piano.

Miss Ruth Crowl and Miss Elizabeth Downie served punch. They with Miss Margaret Hoefner, were in charge of the dinner while Miss Ruth Dunn directed the games.

MENTALLY SICK NOT CRIMINALS SHOULD NOT BE TREATED AS SUCH

A group of people were called together in Los Angeles within the week to discuss proposed changes in the California Commitment laws for the mentally disordered. This class of unfortunates in California is still handled as are the criminals. The proposed amendment would abolish the use of jails for the detention of the mentally disordered by facilitating the admission of those properly eligible to treatment in mental hospitals. The righteousness of the proposal carries its own appeal. As one of the proponents of the amendment says: You might as well accuse the insane of having pneumonia, for both are sicknesses.

To treat as a criminal a man or woman who is mentally sick is a cruelty which has its roots in the age of barbarism. Such treatment as a public trial, a period of jail and transportation in the conveyances reserved for the criminals aggravates a mental derangement. Even the proponents of most enlightened penal methods would not sanction the handling of mental incompetents as criminals for their aim is the rehabilitation of the criminal and handling a man or woman with a sick mind as a suspect or criminal does the very opposite of putting his mind at ease and effecting a cure.

Defenders of the present system will point to the few but glaring cases where relatives and "friends" have a mental case consigned to an institution because of some financial advantage which may accrue to themselves. Under this new bill the individual would be as well safeguarded as he is today. The state institutions, already crowded, are not out looking for people who should be in an institution. The jury trial would remain unchanged but it would be avoided wherever possible.

Carl Sandburg in his biography of Mary Todd Lincoln, a poignantly tragic book, tells of Mrs. Lincoln's trial for insanity, before a jury. She was adjudged insane and her son Robert appointed her guardian. The fact that the arrangement continued in force only a little over a year causes one to question her mental incompetency. And if a cure was effected in a matter of fourteen months, as the fact of the restoration of her rights would indicate, it only adds to the strength of the argument. For Mrs. Lincoln told her friends that she could not live in this country after the experience; she said that she could not hold up her head when she met her friends; that she would think that they were always questioning her mental condition. So poor Mrs. Lincoln, needing friends even though unhappy in her relationship with her friends, went to live in France and did not return until she was ready to die and wanted once again to visit the scenes of her youth. A great injustice was done Mrs. Lincoln in shaming her before society. It reminds one of the persecution of witches. It is equally senseless and cruel.

The suffering of ignominy should not be added to the burdens of the mentally sick.

It's a wonder Greta Garbo wasn't recognized sooner, despite her disguise. For she was the one woman not trying to look like Greta Garbo.

RELIEF THROUGH REORGANIZATION

We want to congratulate President Hoover on his program of merging government bureaus, and eliminating organizations for the purpose of national economy.

Was it six or seven years ago that President Coolidge appointed Walter F. Brown to an office to determine how these bureaus could be eliminated and greater economy and efficiency produced?

It seems to us that sometime later he made such a report, but nothing came of it, and when Mr. Hoover was inaugurated, he appointed Mr. Brown postmaster-general. It is unfortunate indeed that this program of efficiency and economy was not inaugurated immediately following the report on the survey, if, indeed, the President's ideas have any relation thereto.

But at any rate, the possibilities are here presented, and the new Democratic administration has a fine outline of the possibilities of what might be done in saving taxpayers' money, if the efforts of the administration are unwearying by the masses of the "deserving faithful" in their hunt for jobs.

It is not very often that an administration closes its record with a great effort of economy, and proceeds to actually pare things down in a most certain way. We wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing to change administrations every four years, and let the outgoing president lay down the plans for economy for the incoming administration. In other words, he could set the number of tasks, and maybe the salaries, for his opponents. No joking, the taxpayers would be the beneficiaries.

We believe Mr. Hoover has established a statesmanlike policy. Its wisdom will be seen more and more as it is discussed. At any rate, as by the dispatches, if his desires are really accomplished, a work will have been done which the last four administrations have promised to do.

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party."

ALFRED E. SMITH AS SPEAKER

The dispatches declare that some of the Democrats are thinking of electing Al Smith speaker of the national House of Representatives.

The Democrats are having factional quarrels, with nearly half a dozen candidates for speaker. And they are engendering such bad spirit among themselves, that they all recognize there is likely to be such a serious split that it will affect their program of legislation. While the former Governor of New York is not a member of the National Congress, it is pointed out by those who suggest his name, that there is nothing legally to interfere with his election, as the Speaker of the House does not necessarily have to be a member of the body.

We seriously doubt if this will be done. Precedent and tradition are pretty strong against any such innovation, and again, the Southern Democrats are not entirely enamored of Mr. Smith, and they would have to be explaining to their constituents. Many of the members of the House would not want such a dominant figure in that position, in any case.

Not since the days of Speaker Cannon, have we had a man who would be likely to control the situation as Mr. Smith would, were he elected. That he is qualified for this position infinitely more than for the position of Chief Executive of the nation, no one who is acquainted with his record, would attempt to question.

Mr. Smith knows public policy. He knows the plan of legislation. He is a true parliamentarian. He could perform a great service in that body, possibly the greatest of his career. But we are afraid it just isn't "on the cards."

The hunger marchers who ate dinner first and THEN took a taxi to the White House showed pretty good judgment at that.

REICHSTAG ADJOURNS

The world will probably breathe a little easier owing to the adjournment of the Reichstag, which leaves the rule of Germany entirely in the cabinet formed by von Schleicher, at least until late in January.

The Reichstag was persuaded to adjourn, subject to the call of the Speaker. It appears that von Hindenburg, in passing by Hitler, and determining upon von Schleicher, arranged a program really of dividing the Nazi group, by having one of Hitler's lieutenants appointed to a place in the cabinet.

Hitler foresaw this possibility, and has endeavored to get such pledges of fealty from all of his leaders as to insure unity. But the politicians of Germany, not unlike the politicians of the United States, evidently reserved the right to change their minds and Gregor Strasser, known as the Nazi "Crown Prince," who has been a party organizer, is one of these. It may tend, however, toward the solidification of the party and greater activity.

Using Fresh Air to Battle Menace of Colds

San Bernardino Sun

Winter's other annoyances and discomforts could be put up with gracefully were it not for those common ailments of grip and colds which are most prevalent in winter. No matter how often a person has been afflicted with these maladies a new attack lays him low in body and spirit.

Absences from work on account of these common ailments are a severe blow to industry and business. Claims against benefit associations because of influenza or grip make up 20 per cent of the total compensation paid by these associations.

If people could avoid getting these diseases they would save themselves discomfort, doctor's bills, loss of wages and danger of serious illness. But try as one may, it seems impossible to escape at least one attack a winter.

People who get plenty of fresh air, who ventilate their homes thoroughly, who avoid wet feet, and who are careful to take a good amount of exercise are the ones least affected. Fresh air is a wonderful medicine.

Rangers, Too, Dismount

San Francisco Chronicle

The Canadian "Mounties" are not the only force this gasoline age has lifted from saddle horse and packmule and set behind a steering wheel. In the United States the Forest Service has long been shifting from horsemanship to motor mechanics.

The old time forest ranger who put a fishhook in his pocket for provisions, forked his horse and rode off into the tall timber and the high mountains with a pack mule trailing behind is almost a thing of the past. An officer of the Forest Service said the other day there are probably not ten men left in the service in California who could throw a diamond.

The young chaps of the present service drive clippers and work trails and fight fire with motor machines.

"Oh, Ranger: Show me what's wrong with my ignition."

And he does. He knows that.

Aviation Moves Forward

Riverside Daily Press

Colonel Lindbergh's announcement of detailed plans for regular, commercial transoceanic air services brings one particular bright beam of the past decade closer to realization than anything else that has happened in aviation.

Ever since the end of the war, when people were just beginning to realize the potentialities of the airplane, the world has dreamed of ocean air liners. It has been a good deal too optimistic, at times, and the countless tragedies of ill-advised ocean flights in the last half dozen years have probably had a good influence in that they helped us to understand the obstacles in the way of the dream's realization.

Now, however, it is evident that something definite is about to be done. And the new venture could have no better recommendation to the general public than the fact that Lindbergh is its chief technical advisor.

INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE

The other day I suggested that the magnitude of the agricultural enterprise of the United States and to keep in mind the fact that we cannot expect to effect an industrial recovery apart from an agricultural recovery.

The land, building, equipment, and livestock that comprised the agricultural plant of the United States was valued, in the years immediately preceding the World War, at approximately $46,000,000,000.

Its value shot upward to $79,000,000,000 in 1919. By 1930 it had dropped in value to $52,000,000,000.

The "present agricultural worth" of the United States is probably below that of the pre-war years. And, as for farm income, I indicated the other day that the 1932 farm income will doubtless be $12,000,000,000 below the farm income of 1919.

We cannot suffer this drastic shrinkage in the value of the agricultural plant of the nation and this tragic slump of agricultural income to the yearly tune of an amount equal to all the war debts without having our ears bombarded with a repercussion throughout the business and industrial system of the nation.

Agriculture, like industry, is, as I suggested the other day, seriously dependent upon world markets.

In fact, agriculture is more dependent upon world markets than business and industry are.

In normal times, 13 per cent of American farm products must look to export trade for an outlet.

Now but little more than half that amount gets beyond our shores.

Industry depends on export trade, in comparison to its total production, only about half as much as agriculture does.

It is not just a matter of making the American farmer prosperous so that he may be a happy and contented citizen.

The whole enterprise of American business and industry depends for recovery as much upon the enrichment and stabilization of agriculture as upon its own more immediate stimulation, for the 50,000,000 Americans on farms and in farm-related industries and services form a husky section of the market for the output of business and industry.

THE IDEALISTS

Once in a lifetime each one of us is an idealist. Few come through with the ideal complete, or even still in the vision. Yet that period of idealism is precious and the adolescents who express it must be encouraged to hold on and fight and win. Adult disillusionment ought not to extend to blighting youthful idealism and enthusiasm.

It is always stimulating to an adult to hear a youthful crusader talking. He sits back, a smile in his eyes, nods his head and says, "Yes, yes. Once I felt like that." The crusading Youth turns to him and asks in surprise, "Aren't you that way now?" So simple, so clear, does the vision strike upon the mind of Youth.

What will the old man, the master, say? Is he that way now? The old fire stirs. Maybe he is. At least he hopes so, and certainly he hopes that this fiery one, this strong spirit untouched by the drabness, the sordidness of life, unwearied by any struggle, touched by a vision of hope and beauty, is really an old master he says so. Only the shoddy failures try to drown the fires of Youth.

It seems to me from where I sit in this office to which so many children and old masters come, that we have been drowning idealism in our Youth rather than fanning it into flame. In the first place we hide facts from them. We protect them from what we know to be the truth in politics, in government, in the market places. "They are too young to know. They would be misled." Our failing? Our compromise with the vision? It seems that way to me.

And when Youth breaks into flame and threatens the security and peace of our snuggeries, how fast we are to squelch him. "When you are old enough to understand what we are talking about you can speak out and lead a cause. Until then you keep still and study your lessons and follow me." Small blame to Youth if, in the vein of the inscription on the tombstone in the Richmond churchyard, he says, "To follow you I'm not content because I know which way you went."

We will have to be more careful of our youth. We need its idealism and its crusading spirit. We need
